Weather

Fine and hot. The maximum temperature yesterday was 92.5 and the minimum 75.6, the figures for the corresponding day last year being 90.3 and 76.3.

DISARMING BOARD OF LEAGUE IS IN SESSION

Sub Committees Probe Various Parts Of Trade In Arms

PLAN A REPORT

Body Is Working To Aid Washington By Paving Way

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, July 18.—The Disarmament Committee of the League of Nations has begun its sittings. The committee consists of 20 members, who are chosen as individuals and not as representatives of the respective Governments, and includes three British members.

The Committee appointed three sub-committees to inquire into the private manufacture of war-material, traffic in arms, and the present and pre-war military strength of the various countries concerned.

The result of the investigations will be submitted to the Assembly of the League of Nations on September 5, and it is hoped that it will be of assistance to the Washington Conference.

London, July 18.—In the House of Commons today, Mr. Horatio Bottomley and Sir J. D. Rees urged that representations should be made to the League of Nations to suspend its activities in regard to disarmament, in view of the pending Washington Conference.

Mr. Balfour, in reply, said he did not think such representations would be necessary, and that the League would no doubt consider the importance of the forthcoming discussions in Washington.

Amsterdam, July 18.—The Washington correspondent of the Telegraaf declares that it is certain that Holland will be invited to attend the Pacific conference at Washington.

CHILE AGREEABLE

London, July 18.—According to a telegram from Washington, the Chilean Ambassador to the United States stated in an interview that Chile will give President Harding's call for a disarmament conference her moral support, and that he was convinced that all the other South American Republics would gladly welcome the President's proposal.

PURE INVENTION

London, July 18.—Replying to Mr. J. R. Clynes, in the House of Commons today, Mr. Lloyd George stated that the statement in the press to the effect that the King had intervened to straighten the entanglement in the negotiations between the Government and the United States regarding the Pacific Conference, was a pure invention.

Dr. J. C. Ferguson, advisor to President Hsu, has returned to Peking. The Government will take up the question of the Disarmament Conference and the Shantung question with him immediately.

HUNDREDS DIE IN FUKIEN WHERE PLAGUE IS RAGING

(China Press Correspondence)

Hinghwa, July 14.—This section of Fukien Province is being visited by one of the most violent epidemics of bubonic plague that has been experienced in ten years. A yearly recurrence of the plague is the expected thing here but it seems to be in a more deadly form than usual.

Up to the present over a hundred deaths have taken place in Hinghwa City alone while in the surrounding villages it is raging everywhere.

The doctors of St. Luke's Hospital state that where the patients have not been treated that over ninety percent of the cases prove fatal.

The Anglican and Methodist hospitals have conducted a campaign against plague and thousands have been inoculated. The magistrate has made provision for inoculating 1,000 poor people. Inoculation has been proved effective but superstition dooms many to death.

28-DAY RESPITE GIVEN BANK IN HONGKONG COURT

Manager Says Moral Suasion Will Be Brought To Bear In France

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, July 19.—The Supreme Court has granted an application for the adjournment for 28 days of the hearing of the petition for the winding up of the Hongkong branch of the Banque Industrielle de Chine.

The local manager of the bank expressed the opinion that the meeting of shareholders to be held on the 25th inst. was for the purpose of passing a resolution sanctioning an application to the Court for a transactional settlement.

It would, he believed, benefit the creditors and depositors of the bank to await the decision of the French Court before winding up the local branch of the bank, as he was of opinion that the French Government would bring moral pressure to bear on financial circles in France in order to retrieve the position of the bank, and to arrange for the creditors and depositors, if not to be paid in full, at least to receive more than the bank at Hongkong was able to pay if wound up forthwith.

GREEKS MOVE ON FOUR CITIES NOW HELD BY TURKS

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, July 18.—The Greeks have launched a general offensive which is developing in four different directions:

(1) The line Pazarkewy-Isnik; (2) towards Biddjh; (3) towards Inegul, and (4) towards Harmandjik.

The Kemalist troops are retiring along the whole front.

Steamer Ecuador Due In Tomorrow

Another consignment of mail from America is due to arrive tomorrow afternoon on the steamer Ecuador of the Pacific Mail which, according to advices received here, sailed from Kobe on Monday. The Ecuador is to berth at the China Merchants' Central wharf tomorrow afternoon. The vessel has 1,150 tons of cargo and 891 bars of silver for Shanghai and is carrying a full passenger list.

Tin And Machinery Trades Are Reviving

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 18.—There are signs of a revival of industry, several mills as well as tin-plate works in South Wales re-starting, thus giving employment to a large number of workmen.

There is a keen demand for textile machinery from Lancashire, chiefly from India, and also from France and Japan.

SITUATION IN SILESIA IS INCREASING IN DANGER

Disarmament Largely Fictitious, France Warns Germany

ATTACK OFFICER

Restoration Of Peace Only Aim; Friction Rumor Is Fiction

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, July 18.—The French Government in its note to Germany on the subject of Upper Silesia gives the precise facts and figures to show that disarmament is still largely fictitious, and that the situation in Upper Silesia is increasingly dangerous.

The timeliness of the French Government's measures to reinforce the troops in that region has at once been demonstrated by events, Allied officers having been attacked yesterday in various parts of Upper Silesia.

France's aim, it is stated, is solely to secure the execution of the Peace Treaty and the restoration of peace in Europe.

The report of alleged rivalry between France and Great Britain, which has been circulated by the Government press in Germany, is declared to be merely a very clumsy attempt to split the Entente Cordiale, the keystone of world peace.

ATTACK ON OFFICER

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, July 18.—Another attack on a French officer is reported from Upper Silesia. A mob of soldiery attacked the hotel where Lieutenant Vibout, Deputy Controller of the Ratibor district, and his wife resided. The Lieutenant decided that it was not safe to remain in Ratibor and left for Oppeln.

HOLLAND TO HOLD THRONE FROM ALL BUT PRESENT LINE

Activities Of Foreigners To Be Ended By Revision Of Constitution

(Reuter's Service)

The Hague, July 18.—The report has been presented to the Government of the preliminary discussions of the committees of the Second Chamber concerning the revision of the Constitution.

With regard to succession to the throne the majority of the members expressed satisfaction that the revision of the Constitution would end the activities of many members of foreign dynasties, one of whom might eventually be called to the throne, while on the other hand many regretted that the revision did not go far enough and did not provide an opportunity for deciding that the present monarchial regime might be replaced by another whenever Queen Wilhelmina's line failed. Many members energetically opposed this suggestion and expressed warm approval of the present form of monarchy in Holland.

FILIPINO PARTY WANT FREEDOM WITH PROTECTION

Senate's Head Sees Ray Of Hope In Confab On Disarming

Independence for the Philippine Islands, with a protectorate by the United States, will be urged in Washington by Manuel Quezon, President of the Philippine Senate, who passed through Shanghai yesterday on the Shinyo Maru.

Mr. Quezon also intimated that he would be in Washington for the conference on disarmament called by President Harding. An agreement between the United States, Great Britain and Japan to assure peace in the Pacific would mean that the protectorate would not be necessary and absolute independence for the Filipinos would result, Mr. Quezon said.

It is with this idea that the Filipino politician is going to America and not to attempt to controvert reports from the Wood-Forbes mission now investigating conditions in the Islands. In discussing the investigation Mr. Quezon said:

"I do not expect anything reactionary from General Wood and Mr. Forbes nor do I expect anything reactionary from the Republican Administration."

Mr. Quezon expressed pleasure at the news that General Wood is to be the next Governor-General and said that the man now at the head of the mission sent by President Harding would seek to promote friendly relations between Americans and Filipinos.

OFFERS MILLION MEN

Stressing the necessity of continued good will between Americans and Filipinos Mr. Quezon said:

"We Filipinos hope for a continued good feeling between Filipinos and Americans. The Philippine Islands can place a million armed men at the disposal of the United States Government in the event of trouble in the Pacific. The Filipinos will fight for a people they like. They would not fight for a people whom they do not like."

In speaking of a future Philippines, the Senate president said that in 12 years both legislative Houses would be comprised entirely of English-speaking men trained in schools established by Americans.

"The coming conference of Great Powers means much to the future Philippines," Mr. Quezon added.

Accompanying the President of the Philippine Senate were his two secretaries, Jose Sanvictores, business manager of the Philippines Herald, and Manuel Nieto; Dr. Fernando Calderon, head of the Philippine General Hospital; Resident Commissioner to the United States, Isauro Gabaldon, and General Tinio, a wealthy Nueva Ecija planter and former revolutionist.

Mr. Gabaldon, his wife and daughter are to remain in Shanghai until Saturday and will board the Empress for Vancouver.

Mr. Quezon and his party are to catch the Empress in Japan after spending a week in that country gathering data for the Disarmament Conference.

Duty-Free Spirit From Dominions Is Factor In Revival

Trade To Be Aided, Argues Horne In Plea Before House Of Commons

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 18.—The House of Commons has adopted a new clause of the finance bill, moved by Sir Robert Horne, Chancellor of the Exchequer, exempting from duty imported spirits produced in the Empire for the purpose of making power or industrial methylated spirits.

Sir Robert Horne urged that the exemption from duty of the means whereby transport was carried on would help trade to revive.

He stated that duties on corresponding foreign spirits would be reduced to the preferential rate previously granted to Dominion spirit. Members of the House pointed out that the concession would help the motor industry and would encourage the Dominions to produce motor-spirit to compete with petrol.

FUEL OIL IS FREE

Washington, July 18.—The House of Representatives has deleted the proposed duty on crude and fuel oil from the Fordney Tariff Bill.

RACK-RENTERS OF HONGKONG CURBED BY LAW

230,000 Tenants Thank The Governor For Protection Against Landlords

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, July 19.—The Legislative Council yesterday passed the Rents Bill, with amendments. The general principle and scheme of the Bill, however, remain unchanged.

Several petitions were presented to the Council, including one signed by representatives of 230,000 tenants, thanking the Governor for the Ordinance.

A petition from the landlords opposed the Bill.

The main object of the Rents Bill is to ensure that the tenants now in occupation shall not be dispossessed at present as long as they comply with the terms of their tenancies.

DE VALERA'S DEMAND IS LIBERTY OF IRISH RACE

Ulster Pleased With This Stand, Says Its Premier

ONE ISSUE LEFT

South Ireland Crux Of Questions To Be Discussed

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 18.—Mr. de Valera issued the following communique yesterday: "The press gives the impression that I have formulated certain demands with a view to the establishment of a compromise. I have only made one demand, the only one, indeed, that I had the right to make, and that is that Ireland's right to govern herself should be recognised.

ULSTER IS PLEASED

London, July 18.—Sir James Craig and his colleagues have returned to Belfast.

The Ulster Premier said he was well satisfied with the efforts to secure peace and was especially pleased at Mr. de Valera's decision to base his claims on the right of self-determination because Ulster claimed that she already exercised that right. It now merely remained, Sir James Craig continued, for Mr. de Valera and Great Britain to come to terms in regard to South Ireland, in which the people of North Ireland did not claim to intervene. When that was accomplished, Northern Ireland would cordially co-operate with South Ireland in matters of common interest.

The Ulster Premier added:

"By an overwhelming majority at the recent elections—the constitutional method of expressing self-determination—the people of Northern Ireland determined their own Parliament. Mr. de Valera has already admitted Northern Ireland's right to self-determination by putting up candidates for the Northern Parliament, who advocated no partition.

"This was the sole issue of the elections, and was rejected by the largest majority ever secured in a general election in any part of the world."

The Sinn Fein and British military authorities in Ireland have concluded an agreement whereby all restrictions on fairs and markets are rescinded.

The Sinn Fein authorities have directed all citizens to co-operate in filling up trenches, removing road obstructions and in repairing the bridges which have been blown up.

AT CRUCIAL STAGE

London, July 18.—The Irish negotiations appear to have reached a crucial stage. Mr. de Valera, who was again cheered by crowds in Downing Street, had nearly a two hours conversation with Mr. Lloyd George this evening, after which it was officially announced that the conversations will be resumed on Thursday.

Sir James Craig and other members of the Ulster Cabinet arrived at Downing Street shortly before Mr. de Valera had left, and after Mr. de Valera's departure Sir James Craig had an interview with the Prime Minister lasting an hour. It is stated that Mr. Lloyd George during the week-end informed Sir James Craig of Mr. de Valera's proposals for a settlement. These were examined by the Ulster Cabinet whose views were conveyed to the Prime Minister.

The conversation between Mr. Lloyd George and Mr. de Valera this evening is thought to have related to the attitude of Ulster, which is regarded as the crux of the question. It is stated that Mr. de Valera will submit the result of the negotiations to the Sinn Fein Parliament in Dublin.

PRISONERS REJOICE

London, July 18.—Eighty Sinn Fein prisoners at Princetown and Dartmoor today refused to obey orders. They shouted, danced and sang, and had to be forcibly taken back to their cells.

It is announced from Dublin Castle that, with the exception of the recent sporadic outbreaks in the Belfast district, the utmost order prevails in the rest of Ireland.

How Chinese Highway Sets Out On Journey To The Sea

By Bruce Hopper

GET off the map, if you would see the earth as it was in the beginning. Find the most obscure place on the globe, where the maker has run the contours into deep fissures to lose sight of them ever after. That is unexplored country, as proved by the map maker's haphazard co-ordination of mountains and river bends supposed to exist. There one will find the ever-alluring thrill of the unknown, the spell of the untrodden wilderness.

The threshold of Thibet is still unsurveyed territory. The maker of maps continues to throw ink at his chart, and allow the spots to represent the location of cities and monuments of nature. The traveller must discover and locate places for himself, measure distances, and ascertain altitudes.

The uncertainty of what wonders lie ahead on the day's march makes every hour intense with expectancy. And the traveller is lured far into that remote upland, where the mountains rise sheer in primeval splendor and awful magnitude.

There King Solitude's reign is unchallenged, save by the cry of the wild duck in the canyon, and the whistle of the biting wind from Hindu Kush. And there, too, the mighty Yangtsze, sleepy enough near Shanghai, gathers head for his impetuous drive to the sea, boiling, racing, plunging through cataracts and between boulders like a monster unchained.

YANGTZE CHINA'S HIGHWAY

Nearly every empire, flourishing or long since turned ashes, depended upon some river for communication and distribution of civilising influences to the interior.

Babylon had the Euphrates, Assyria the Tigris, Egypt was the Nile, and in republican days Rome was the Tiber.

China is so vast that no one river can claim exclusive rights as a civilising medium. Yet the Yangtsze, one of the mightiest arteries of the earth, is China's highway to the far interior, and one of the most important waterways in the world.

In the misty days before histories were written the Chinese people came down from the North, discovered the broad waters of the Yangtsze between the sea and Hankow, and settled in the fertile valley.

Early navigators poled and towed their junks through the rapids above Ichang to the fork with the Min river, now Suifu.

Some few miles farther, at Pingshanhsien, they came to the beginning of the tremendous rapids, which always have been, and probably always will be, the head of Yangtsze navigation.

Skilled river men try in vain to master those terrific hell races and treacherous whirlpools. They form an impassable barrier to river communication with the far interior.

SHOOTING THE RAPIDS

Yet 500 miles farther on, where the river is less in volume, there are stretches of navigable water for those who love the thrill and excitment of shooting rapids in a small boat. To say the rapids are navigable is not exactly true, but the passage can be made by those who can combine daring with skill.

Britain Sweltering As Depression Goes Swirling To Arctic

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 18.—Another sweltering day, with the barometer rising, has dispelled the hopes of a break in the drought aroused by a few local thunder showers yesterday. A new anti-cyclone has arrived from the south-west and is covering the whole British Isles, and the depression on which hopes for rain were centered has moved to the Arctic. Exceptionally warm weather is predicted.

Work For Lepers Is Largely Extended In Far Eastern Lands

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 18.—The forty-sixth annual report of the Mission of Lepers shows a considerable extension of work during the past year. New buildings have been constructed in India, Siam and Korea, and an island for a model leper colony has been secured off Canton.

What Do We Discuss At The Dinner Table?

By Elsie McCormick

We don't know what Madame Recamier used to say when she leaned over on her chaise-longue to light a conversational sky-rocket with the cleverest wits of France, but we're fairly certain that "Quitcher kiddin'" wasn't part of the stock and that she didn't derail the train of thought to tell the houseboy to "go topside chop-chop and catchee one piece powder-puff."

Occasionally when it's raining and we have nothing else to do we wonder what Madame Recamier would find to talk about in Shanghai. Conversation in the Far East among people meeting at dinner parties and teas has been worked into a ritual, with proper responses to be made at certain parts of the liturgy and with no more chance for originality than there is in reciting the Koran.

You know how it goes. You give your dinner partner a hasty survey, decide that you have drawn a lemon, and then inquire sweetly, "Have you been in China long?" Then, after the reply, which you didn't hear because you were trying to catch what an auburn-haired girl was saying across the table, you murmur, "Really! That's quite a long while, isn't it?"

Having bayonetted an olive and wondered where to put the stone because the houseboy had suddenly removed your plate, you continue with the ritual by asking, "Do you like it out here?"

THE SAME OLD BUNK

After the party of the second part has answered that he or she likes it pretty well in some ways but misses the good shows and music that one gets at home, it is your turn to remark that "They say that if you go back after being out here for three or four years, you're not satisfied until you return."

About this time the fish arrives all in one piece, and with the aid of the implements you dig out two little flakes and five loose bones. You move out of range until your partner helps himself, after which you ask, "Have you ever been to Peking?" Having agreed that it's an awfully interesting place, that the Temple of Heaven is just lovely, only it's shame the way they're letting it go to rack and ruin, and that the climate is much more exhilirating there than in Shanghai, you pursue a fragment of fish across your plate and give your opinion of the local weather.

This is really the most important and honored part of the ritual, for while other sections might vary, nobody ever fails to say that it wouldn't be so bad if it wasn't for the humidity.

By the time the climate has been properly disposed of, diversion is created by the filling of the glasses and a remark on the part of somebody across the table that you can't get this at home now. Somebody else now turns to the newest arrival from the United States and asks him how prohibition is working out. Various tales of bootlegging, of homemade "hooch", and of attempts to smuggle liquor into the country hold the stage for at least five minutes.

"OH! A GREAT TRIP"

In the lull that follows this phase of the conversation, your

Oil Well Bored In Britain Now Flowing

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 18.—Replying to a question in the House of Commons today regarding oil boring in Staffordshire Mr. Stanley Baldwin, President of the Board of Trade, stated that boring at Hardstoft had been carried to a depth of 3,933 feet and had produced 213,825 gallons of high grade oil.

PREMIERS OF COLONIES TALK ON CITIZENSHIP

Extension Of Nationality To Foreign Born Topic Of Conference

London, July 13.—It is officially announced that a further special conference was held at the Colonial Office today under the presidency of Mr. Winston Churchill. Mr. Hughes, Mr. Massey, Mr. C. C. Ballantyne, Sir Thomas Smartt, Sir H. Mentz and Mr. Sastri were present.

The conference passed a number of resolutions, the first recommending that the development of wireless telephony should be investigated and technical reports furnished to the governments of the Dominions and India.

The second resolution commended to the favorable consideration of the governments of the Dominions and India the principle of the proposals put forward by the Home Secretary, Mr. Shortt, providing for the acquisition of British nationality by persons of British descent of the second and subsequent generations born abroad subject to registration at birth and the renewal of registration as British subjects on attaining their majority.

The third resolution passed recommended an early conference in London of representatives of the Patent Offices of the Dominions in order to consider the practicability of instituting a system of granting patents which would be valid throughout the Empire.

The fourth resolution endorsed the resolution passed by the Imperial Press Conference at Ottawa in 1920 that any government assistance towards the reduction of rates for press services should appear specifically on the estimates and should not affect the quality of the news or the freedom of the newspapers.

The fifth resolution recommended the governments concerned to examine any practicable proposals to reduce cable and wireless rates for press messages.

KEITH'S REMINDER

London, July 18.—Professor Berriedale Keith, of Edinburgh University, in a letter to the Times, says: President Harding's action in not extending a separate invitation to the oversea British Dominions to the disarmament conference is a necessary deduction from the refusal of the Republican party to accept the separate voting power allotted to the Dominions in the League of Nations.

The same consideration prevented the appointment of an independent Canadian representative at Washington. The episode is fundamentally important as a reminder that the status of the Dominions is still imperfect so long as it is not recognised by the greatest world-Power.

Wu Pei-fu Wants Quarter Million To Invade Shensi

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, July 15.—Financial squabbles have not been injected into the Shensi muddle to make conditions more difficult. It was reported today that an emissary from General Wu Pei-fu came to Peking and demanded that he be given $250,000 at once for military expenses in Shensi.

Minister Pan Fu of Finance is said to have replied that the Government did not have that amount at the time whereupon the delegate became angry. The outcome of the demand is of course in doubt.

There was however some encouragement in the Shensi reports. One of these told that General K'e Ching-peng, chief aide to General Chen Shu-fan, had notified the Government that he had definitely severed connections with his old chief and would hereafter be loyal to Yen Hsiang-wen, the new Tuchun and to the Central Government.

General Chen left Sian because he was forced out, it was said today, not because he was willing to retire. It was also said that some of the Government troops followed him and that in a battle west of Sian, 600 of Chen's men were killed and more wounded. The Chihli troops have now arrived at a point about 30 li. east of Sian and another conflict is expected if Chen does not lay down his arms.

Only Dozen Doctors Qualify Out Of 160

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, July 15.—Out of a total of 160 physicians who applied recently for examinations that would entitle them to certificates, only twelve have been able to qualify, it became known today.

Many of the students failed to show a proper knowledge either of diagnosis or treatment and only twenty-three of them were able to qualify for the final tests. The Government will continue its policy of giving certificates only to the competent, it was said today.

How China's Great Highway Sets Out To Seek The Sea

The course from Li Kiang, north west of Talifu, Yunnan, to Chin Ya Tan, the triple cataract southeast of Huli Chou, Szechuan, a distance of nearly 300 miles, has been covered only twice. The first navigator was Commandant Audemard of the French Marine, in 1910.

The sportsman can, after dickering several days, buy a small boat at the ferry which serves Li Kiang. Hiring a crew is difficult, for the river folk are deathly afraid of the rapids, which they declare are symbols of the fury of the water god, Shen Shui. By making the price high enough he may eventually persuade some Shans to go with him. The Shans are the most daring.

CAUGHT IN SWIRL

The little craft starts out leisurely, is caught in the swirl below the ferry, and the race is on. Gigantic forces grapple the gunwales, the boat takes the first rush on the slunch, barrels of water come aboard, and in the mad confusion the boat chief shouts orders that the oarsmen cannot hear, much less carry out.

The first rapid passed the boatmen catch breath, while the passengers bale. The current, however, sweeps the boat on to the next torrent, on through dark gorges so deep that the sun cannot penetrate to the water worn boulders.

The cliffs tower to unmeasured heights, and almost meet at the skyline.

NATURES NIGHTMARE

Nature had a nightmare when she made those folded walls. There is not a tree, not a shrub, nothing but the frowning, resonant walls which echo the roar of the rapids.

Each plunge seems more terrifying than the last, and the wonder is how the boat can withstand the pressure. Sometimes the water takes a nasty rush to the left, or right, on the double, piling up against the perpendicular walls. That is a dangerous pocket, for if the boat is caught in the back wash it is flung into the whirlpool.

The downward suction seems to be the voice of the water god. The bow takes water, then the stern, all the time the boat is spinning like an egg shell. Then is the moment for supreme effort to clear the boulders which threaten to crush in the sides. To crash in the whirlpool is death, for the current sucks down to the bottom of the river.

The first day the navigator will shoot 75 rapids, some more than two miles long. And at night he will camp on the top of a boulder, or if he is fortunate, on a tiny strip of sand.

Should he select the right season he will have the moon smiling faintly on the solitude, and he will always have the deep tones of the rapids in his dreams.

Japan's Prince Bids Farewell To Italy

(Reuter's Service)

Rome, July 18.—A message from Naples states that last night the Japanese Crown Prince entertained the Italian authorities to a sumptuous dinner aboard the Katori, after which there was a brilliant reception at the Admiralty, which was attended by many prominent residents.

The Crown Prince of Japan left Naples today and received an enthusiastic farewell from a crowd of many thousands. The Katori and the Kashima sailed from the harbor amid salvoes from the forts and cheers from the sailors.

His Imperial Highness sent a wireless message to the King and the Italian people, expressing his warmest thanks for the cordial reception accorded to him.

Conversation Here Seeks The Deadliest And Dullest Level

partner turns around and queries, "What boat did you come over on?" You name it, and he names his, the remainder of the course being taken up with a comparison between the northern and southern routes, remarks concerning the size of staterooms, and the inevitable statement, "I'd like very much to go home by way of Suez, but it's so awfully hard to get passage, and besides it's dreadfully expensive."

While you wish that it was proper to pick up chicken bones in the brief silence that follows, you lend an ear for a moment to conversations going on in the vicinity.

Across the way they are talking about exchange and somebody has just said, "All I know about exchange is that every time I change money I lose." A bit of polite laughter ripples around the neighborhood, and then another guest remarks "Do you remember last year when a dollar Mex. was worth more than a gold dollar?" Everybody who does volunteers a hard luck tale or two concerning experiences in the days when a draft from home was worth less than its face value in Shanghai.

OF COURSE, THE SIGNS

By the time dessert has arrived, the party is feeling sufficiently gay to indulge in a few stories about Chinese signs.

One of the guests refers to "A. Cockeyed, Tailor," another speaks of "Ladies can have fits upstairs, and a third inevitably mentions, "Coats made out of your skin or ours."

Just as the guests are about to rise, your partner brings the ritual to its proper close by asking, "How long are you planning to stay in the East?"

We often wonder what Madame Recamier would do about it. If she misplayed the system by making a remark not in the liturgy she would doubtless be greeted by an expression of such pained astonishment that she would hastily swallow a spoonful of hot soup and make amends by asking, "How long have you been in Shanghai?"

The background of common experience has been fatal to conversational ability. At home, where one cannot ask a guest how he got into the country and how long he's been there, without bringing out statistics that belong to the family Bible, much heavier demands are made upon one's verbal originality.

But here in the East, questions and answers fall into place with such well-oiled sequence that one can carry on a complete conversation with a mind up in the Milky Way or concentrated on the gown of the woman opposite.

Some day an efficiency expert will reduce it all to a printed manual and then one need only turn to a stodgy dinner partner, say "remark seven, Page 18," and give the rest of his attention to the soup.

Long Distance Motor Service Being Planned

With regard to the proposed Shanghai-Minghong-Zahling motor service, it is reported that the preliminary survey of the route has been completed and that the promoters have decided to open offices in Nantao to allot shares to those who have already applied for them.

The route as proposed is 91 li in length, necessitating the acquirement of 900 mow of land and requiring the construction of 29 bridges. Twenty motor vehicles, each to carry twenty-five persons are to be put into service, it is stated, as well as two steam launches for ferrying passengers across the Whangpoo. Orders for cars and launches are said to have been placed with an American firm here.

Mixed Court Jottings

Inquests over the bodies of three Chinese killed by motor cars were held yesterday. One of the victims was struck and knocked down on Bubbling Well Road near Mohawk Road Monday evening and another, a ricsha coolie, was run down at the approach to Honan Road bridge. The third man was struck by a car carrying Mr. Kahler, 11 Robinson Road, when he sprang back into the road to avoid a stream of water spurting from a hydrant. A Chinese youth who loosed the stream was also knocked down and is in hospital in a critical condition. The drivers were not held to blame in any of the cases.

A Lithuanian named Vladislaw Rusteika was charged in the Mixed Court yesterday with putting into circulation a counterfeit $50 American bank note. He was remanded for trial with a Russian who had been previously charged.

Two Chinese coolies, 15 and 16 years of age, were sent to the reformatory for six months yesterday for theft of gasoline from Messrs. H. S. Honigsberg and Co. The Assessor in giving judgment commented that the accused were much too young to be placed in charge of the gasoline supply of any firm. An electrician charged by the same firm with theft of a magneto was remanded in custody for one week.

The amah who caused the death of her sweetheart last week by kicking him was sentenced to four years' imprisonment yesterday.

The No. 1 chauffeur of the Shanghai Taxi Co. appeared in court yesterday on the charge of theft of $135 worth of motor car accessories. He is suspected of further larcenies and a remand of one week was given to permit further investigation.

Two coolies and a houseboy appeared in court yesterday on the charge of assaulting Mr. G. J. Jessop, 59 Range Road. The complainant testified that one of the accused had been impertinent and that he had spoken somewhat roughly to him, whereupon he called other servants of the household and the witness was attacked with a stick of wood and brooms. The complainant asked to withdraw the charge against one of the three and the others were fined $5 and $10 respectively.

Judge Reverses Receiver In Decision On Ezra Bankruptcy Case

In the bankruptcy case of Mr. J. L. Ezra, a decision was handed down yesterday by Judge Peter Grain, Assistant Judge of the British Supreme Court, upholding contentions of an appeal taken by banks interested in the case from a ruling made by Mr. A. E. Dickson, Official Receiver in the case.

Claims that had been presented before the receiver by the Netherlands Trading Society and the Nederlandsche Indische Handelsbank in connection with the bankruptcy proceedings were disallowed on the grounds that the transactions from which the claims arose were gambling transactions under the provisions of the British Gaming Act. This ruling has been reversed in the decision given on the appeal that the banks took. The appellants were represented by Mr. H. Lipson Ward.

THE DECISION

Judgment was as follows:

These two cases come before me, on a motion by the Netherlands Trading Society that the decision of the official receiver dated April 14, 1921, rejecting a proof of their Society against the estate of Judah Ezra, a debtor in bankruptcy, for Tls. 90,849.12 may be reversed and the proof admitted.

And a similar motion by the Nederlandsche Indische Handelsbank that a proof of this bank for Tls. 495,131.27 may be admitted and the official receiver's rejection reversed.

Both cases raise the same points of law and fact, it has therefore been agreed that they shall be heard together.

HOW DEALS WERE MADE

The facts are as follows: On August 7, 1920, the debtor sold to Netherlands Trading Society two sums of £25,000, on August 9, a sum of £25,000 and on August 19 a sum of £10,000, the date of delivery in each case being December, 1920.

In the Nederlandsche Bank case the debtor sold the sums £25,000, £25,000, £10,000, £20,000 and £50,000.

In the case of the Netherlands Society there was a promissory note and judgment had been obtained for the amount due.

In the Nederlandsche Bank there was no promissory note and no judgment.

On the dates when the various accounts to be delivered under the contracts became due, the debtor failed to fulfil his obligations to deliver these sums of money and shortly afterward filed his petition in bankruptcy. In due course proofs of the debts of the two banks came before the official receiver who rejected them on the ground that they were moneys due on contracts which were illegal by reason of the gaming acts. On behalf of the official receiver it is argued that these were merely contracts to pay the difference in exchange when the money became due, that in reality they were bets on the rise and fall of exchange.

With regard to the judgment in the Netherlands case, there is no doubt that this Court sitting in Bankruptcy has power to go behind the judgment and enquire into the consideration for the contract, even when the debtor has consented to judgment.

In fact Mr. Ward did not argue the point but admitted that there was power for the Court to enquire into the contracts. A considerable number of cases have been cited in the course of the arguments on behalf of both parties, the majority of which are more or less in point.

PRECEDENTS FAVOR BANKS

The first case we have to deal with is Grizewood v. Blane (1851) C. B. Vol. II 526; in this case the fact as to whether both parties had entered into contracts as a purely gambling transaction was left to the jury.

But the judge in directing the jury stated "that if neither party intended that stocks and shares should be bought and sold then it was not a bargain but a mere gambling transaction." This Cresswell (J.) and the other judges agreed was the right direction, i.e., if the intention of both parties was that the agreement should be settled by the payment of differences, it was a gaming transaction. On the evidence before them in that case it was abundantly clear that it was an agreed settlement by paying difference and the jury so found. In this case now before me there is no jury and this fact as to the intentions of the parties has to be found by myself on the evidence before me.

This question, whether when the bank and Ezra entered into the agreement, the understanding was that the money was to be paid over or merely the differences of exchange I will deal with presently. In Thacker v. Hardy (1878) 4 Q.B.D. 685, Lindley J. went into the question more fully. He there refers to these transactions on differences as "Time bargains" and says "What are called 'Time bargains' are, in fact, the result of two distinct and perfectly legal bargains viz. 1st, a bargain to buy and sell, and secondly, a subsequent bargain that the first shall not be carried out."

The Lords Justices Bramwell, Brett and Colin L. L. J. agreed with the law laid down by Lindley, J., stating in their judgments "there must be two separate contracts or bargains one to buy and sell and the other not to deliver but merely pay the differences." Is there any evidence in this case now before me on which I can find that this second bargain or contract was entered into between the bank and the debtor?

INFERENCE NOT ENOUGH

I want more than inference. I want some definite facts which show that the original contract, which, on the face of it, is a perfectly legal contract, namely to deliver a certain sum of money on a certain date, has been superseded by a second contract by which both parties agreed merely to pay differences.

The next case I come to is Forget v. Ostigny L. R. (1895) A. C. 318, which although not directly in point is of very great assistance by reason of the judgment of Lord Herschell, L. C. on gaming contracts generally.

He draws particular attention to the difference between "gambling" and "speculation." He said in his judgment "It may well be that the appellant was aware that in directing a purchase to be made, the respondent did not intend to keep the shares purchased but to sell them when, as he anticipated would be the case, they rose in value that the object was not investment but speculation."

"To enter into such transactions with such an object is sometimes spoken of as gambling on the stock exchange; but it certainly does not follow that the transactions involve any gaming contract.

"A contract cannot properly be so described (gaming contract) merely because it is entered into in furtherance of a speculation."

EZRA'S STATUS IMMATERIAL

A great point has been made in this case that the debtor was merely gambling, that he was not a member of any merchants firm, in fact nothing more than a clerk in his brother's firm. That he was not carrying on any large transactions which necessitate the obtaining of large sums of money. Is there any reason why this should effect the mind of the bank beyond ascertaining that he was likely to meet his obligations. There is, I think, no doubt that he was speculating or in a broad sense of the word, gambling.

He was living in a style of a man of some wealth, and obviously had been, if not at the time of the transcations with the bank, a man of considerable wealth, no doubt through successful speculations.

The bank we may assume considered that he was a man in the position to meet his obligations, and deliver the money if called upon. They made these contracts for the delivery of the money, their consideration being their right to call for the delivery of the money when due, the debtor's consideration being his right to compel the Bank to receive. True, incidentally, one might make a profit on the exchange and the other might lose.

Lord Herschell goes on to state "It is a legitimate commercial transaction to buy a commodity in the expectation that it will rise in value and with the intention of realising a profit by its resale. Such dealings are of every day occurrence in commerce."

The legal aspect of the case is the same whatever the nature of the commodity, whether it is a cargo of wheat or shares of a joint-stock company.

DEALS IN FUTURES LEGAL

Bramwell and Colin L. L. J. in "Thacker v. Hardy" also both use the illustration "There may be a perfectly good contract to sell next year's crop of apples of apples trees growing in a specified orchard."

Lord Herschell continues "Nor again, do such purchases and sales become gaming contracts because the person purchasing is not possessed of the money to pay for his purchases, but obtains the requisite funds in a large measure by means of advances on the security of the stocks or goods he has purchased. For example, a merchant who has to pay the price of a cargo purchased before he re-sells it, obtains in the ordinary course the means of doing so by pledging his bill of lading;" and Lord Herschell further refers to the judgments of Lindley J. and Bramwell L. J. in Thacker v. Hardy stating that he agreed with the law laid down by them, namely, that when contracts stand as an agreement by which one of the parties has a right to take the stock bought by him and keep it as an investment it cannot infringe the gaming acts.

RIGHT OF BANK

In the case now before me unless I can find some evidence that the original contract has been superceded by a later one the bank has a right to demand delivery of the money on the date specified.

The Universal Stock Exchange v. Strachan (1898) A. C. 166 emphasises this point that there must be some understanding that the commodity sold is not to be delivered, in order to bring it within the gaming act. In that case Cave J. in directing the jury said "in order to be a gaming transaction such as the law points at it must be a gambling transaction in the intention of both parties to it . . . notwithstanding those ostensible terms of business was there a secret understanding that the stock should never be called for or delivered and that differences only should be dealt with." He further points out that if this secret understanding did exist it was a gaming contract and as such illegal. When the case came before the House of Lords, Lord Halsbury characterised it as "a most accurate direction." That is the point at issue in this case now before me.

Was there any understanding, secret or otherwise, that this money was in no event to be delivered but only difference of exchange paid?.

In re Cronmine Ex Parte Wand (1898) was another case in which the question of fact as to whether transaction with regard to "difference" on sale and purchases of stocks and shares were on the facts gambling contracts and is not of much assistance to us in this case, as it was decided entirely on its own facts.

In re Grieve (1899). This is also a case dealing with differences in sale and purchase of stock which is an illustration of a contract showing that there was an agreement to pay differences only. Lindley M. R. in his judgment stated very clearly the difference between a contract illegal by reason of its being a gaming one and a contract which does not come within the gaming act. He says "of course, if it is an agreement simply to buy and sell stock for delivery and payment the statute has no application but on the other hand, if the real effect of contract is to stipulate for the payment of differences it is a gambling transaction."

CONCERNING DIFFERENCES

He then deals with the evidence which shows that there was an agreement to deal in differences only.

He points out that the agreement runs thus, "I beg to advise having sold to you 20 Canada at a certain price. If that had been all, it would be an ordinary sold note: there would be nothing on the face of it to show it did not mean what it said . . . but there was something else . . . "plus ⅛th if stock taken up." The expression "if taken up" shows plainly that the parties do not intend that the stock shall be taken, that the buyer need not take it up at all unless he chooses, but if he does he has to pay an extra ⅛th. This is not on the face of it, therefore a bargin for sale and purchase at all."

There unless an additional ⅛th was paid the contract was purely one for the payment of differences. It was a contract of the kind referred to by Cotton L. J. in Thacker v. Hardy "The essence of gaming and wagering is that one party is to win and the other to lose upon a future event, which at the time of the contract is of an uncertain nature."

There was no consideration, no right from one to demand anything from the other beyond payment of the difference unless the ⅛th extra was paid.

It may be that the consideration adjudged sufficient is of the most meagre degree.

In the case of Buitenlandsche Bankvereeniging v. Hildesheim (1903) 19 L. T. R. 641. Sir Henn Collins, then Master of the Rolls, held that the mere right to call for the shares if one wished was sufficient to avoid the gaming act.

It was a case of speculations in "options" and the Master of the Rolls said in his judgment: "It is a bargain for good consideration for the right to call for certain shares. It was not a bet nor was it a gaming contract. The consideration was paid for a real right to call for particular shares on a given date. It was like a bargain for a right to call for so many tons of iron at a certain price on a certain day." Now this is a very strong case, there was no doubt that the parties were really speculating in options alone. But nevertheless the right remained to call for the stock and so long as that right remained there was sufficient consideration to prevent it being a mere bet or gamble.

BANKS EXPECTED DELIVERY

Now in the case before me, on the face of the contract it is an undertaking of Ezra the debtor to deliver £85,000 on December 1 to the Netherlands Trading Society, and in the case of the Nederlandsche Indische Bank a certain sum was also to be delivered on a certain date.

There is nothing to show on the contracts that there was any intention on the part of the banks not to call for delivery of the money. In fact as regards the Netherlands Trading Society the correspondence distinctly tends to show that they did intend to insist upon delivery of the money.

The bank on November 23, 1920, writes to the debtor asking him which bank he is going to pay it into, and further states that if he does not pay it in before 3 p.m. on December 1, they will be compelled to buy on that afternoon or the next day.

And on December 2, they write to the debtor saying that as he has failed to pay the money in they have been compelled to buy in the market at that day's rate.

This case has been one of some difficulty and is no doubt of some importance, one of the difficulties has been that as far as I can ascertain the particular point in this case, namely speculation on exchange does not appear to have been before the Court or raised in any reported cases.

But on a careful study of all the cases cited in the course of this hearing I am of opinion that one is enabled to arrive at a clear issue.

The first point to be decided is the question of fact. Namely what was the form of contract originally entered into by the parties, and was that original contract superseded by any secondary contract.

GAMING ACT CANNOT APPLY

Secondly having decided on the form of the contract does that contract entered into infringe the Gaming Acts.

I have already referred to the form of this contract, and I am of opinion that the contracts as they stand are contracts for delivery of certain sums of money on certain dates, the consideration being the right of one party to demand delivery and of the other party to compel acceptance.

There is no evidence before me on which I should be justified in coming to a conclusion that a further contract was entered into that the difference of exchange only should be paid.

As regards the law I am further of opinion on the cases cited that the contract was a legal one, that the fact that the commodity bought and sold was money makes no difference whatsoever.

The contract was not a bet, although doubtless it was a speculative one, but nevertheless it was a legal contract for a legal consideration and does not therefore come within the Gaming Acts and thereby become illegal.

The order will therefore be that the notice of the official receiver rejecting the proof of the Netherlands Trading Society dated April 14, 1921 and the notice of the Official Receiver rejecting the proof of the Nederlandsche Indische Handelsbank dated June 1, 1921 be reversed and the above named proofs admitted.

On the question of costs, Mr. Ward said, in answer to His Lordship, that he thought there would be sufficient money left in the assets to pay the costs.

The Judge asked if there was to be application for appeal. Mr. Dickson said, "No."

Thibet Question Not Up, Say British

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, July 15.—Reports published in several Chinese papers to the effect that negotiations were already under way looking toward the settlement of the Tibetan question, are unfounded, according to the best informed British circles. It was said today that no arrangements had even been made in Peking for opening such discussions and the Tibetan matter is just where it has been for many months. If Wellington Koo has discussed the matter with the British authorities it is believed that Peking would have heard of it by this time.

CHINESE BACK UP SIMPSON IN WORK ABROAD

Author's Statements To Press Fully Approved, Says Doctor Tyau

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, July 18.—With regard to a statement issued by the British Foreign Office, referring to the position of Mr. Lenox Simpson (who writes under the nom-de-plume of Putnam Weale) Dr. Tyau, Counsellor of the Waichiaopu, has informed Reuter's representative as follows:

"Mr. Simpson's present position is statistician to the President's office in the Republic of China. He is, however, addressed as 'Kuwen,' meaning 'adviser.' By courtesy, he is often officially so addressed.

"During this summer, Mr. Simpson was entitled to a vacation, and taking advantage of this, he proposed to visit both America and Europe, and asked what he could do for the Chinese Government whilst on leave. He was therefore instructed to study and to report on American and European opinion regarding China and her aspirations.

"Regarding the Anglo-Japanese Alliance, we have not yet been fully informed of what he has said before the public, but his opposition to it, which is of ancient date, is in line with the views of the Chinese Government and the sentiments of the entire people of China."

Both Sides Score In Motor Car Case In British Court

Action Is Based On Seizure Of Automobile On Which Loan Was Made

Through a verdict given yesterday by a jury in the case of Mr. S. Matsumoto versus the China Motors Company Mr. Matsumoto found himself the victim of sadly misplaced confidence with resultant financial loss, and the motors company erred in a method of procedure in taking possession of an automobile, ownership of which formed the basis of the action. While both sides in the case were penalised both also scored some measure of victory.

The suit, which was tried before Judge Peter Grain, Assistant Judge of the British Supreme Court, grew out of a loan that Mr. Matsumoto made on March 6 last on a Chandler automobile. He advanced the sum of Tls. 3,500 to one Y. K. Chang and took the car as security without, according to testimony given, establishing definitely that Chang was owner of the car. In the course of the hearing it developed that Chang had bought the car from the China Motors Company some time previously, entering into an agreement with the motors company in connection with the purchase.

The sale price was Tls 4,000 and by the terms of the agreement Tls 1,500 were to be paid down and the balance was to be paid with interest on April 30 with the understanding that the car would remain the property of the motors company until the final payment was made and that in case the final payment was not made, then Chang would forfeit what had been paid and the ownership of the car would remain with the motors company. Testimony was given to the effect that the final payment was not made and after concluding the loan transaction with Mr. Matsumoto, who is a Japanese subject and a broker, Chang left Shanghai.

The plaintiff recited that on May 6 two employes of the motors company without his knowledge or consent, visited his premises and persuaded his chauffeur to open the garage doors. Mr. Matsumoto said that the two agents of the motors company then wrongfully removed the car and since have refused to return it. He asked for the return of the car or Tls. 3,500 with interest at 10 percent to date of payment and he made a further demand of Tls. 7,500 for damages suffered by reason of trespass and wrongful seizure of the car.

According to the finding of the jury the car is the property of the China Motors Company, but the plaintiff's contention in connection with the charge of trespass was also sustained and damages in the sum of $1,500 were awarded to the plaintiff.

Mr. P. W. Goldring appeared for the plaintiff and Messrs. Langley-Smith and F. J. Schuhl appeared for the defendants. The jury was composed of Messrs. H. Wakelam, R. Wood, G. F. Lanning, J. M. Robertson and H. L. Stanfield.

Dock And Engineering Co. Holds Its Annual Meeting

Reports for the year were presented yesterday at the annual meeting of the Shanghai Dock and Engineering Company which was held at the company's offices. No. 26 Broadway. Mr. John Prentice presided and the directors present were Messrs. R. S. F. McBain, A. Brooke-Smith, H. W. Lester and C. Biron. The shares represented at the meeting numbered 8,370.

CHAIRMAN'S ADDRESS

The address of the Chairman was as follows:

Gentlemen.—Before beginning the business of the meeting, I wish to refer to the death on October 18 last whilst at home on leave of our much esteemed Secretary, Mr. James H. Osborne. Mr. Osborne was connected with the company and its predecessors for thirty-six years and from personal knowledge I can assure you that during that long period, he had gained and retained the respect, esteem and confidence of the various companies he served.

Your directors have had conveyed to Mrs. Osborne their deep regret and sympathy with her in her sad loss—I feel certain you join with us in regret and sympathy.

WORK FOR YEAR

During the year we launched two steamers for the China Merchants S. N. Co.'s Shanghai-Hankow river service one of which, the Kiangan has been delivered, and the other, the Kiangshun will be delivered shortly, a river gunboat for His Italian Majesty's Navy and a large cargo pontoon for the Indo-China S. N. Co.

The result of the year's working, owing to the great depression in shipping, shipbuilding and repairing, does not compare favorably with that of last year, but does so with the years ended April 30, 1918 and 1919.

It was in the latter half of the year that the depression affected us so badly, as the profit for the first half of the year ended October 31, 1920 showed an increase over that of the half year ended October 31, 1919 of about 3 percent whereas for the whole year ended April 30, 1921 there was a decrease of about 40 percent.

The net profit for the year including the amount brought forward from last year amounts to Taels 1,085,666.16.

After paying an interim dividend in January last of Taels 6.00 per Share absorbing Taels 331,200.00, paying all charges and allowing for all known liabilities, there remains for distribution the sum of Taels 754,466.16 which we recommend should be dealt with as follows:

	Tls.
Pay a final dividend of Tls. 10 per share (making 16 percent for the year)	552,000.00
Place to Special Reserve Account	100,000.00
And carry forward to New Account	102,466.16

If the recommendation meets with your approval, the Special Reserve will amount to Tls. 1,150,000.00.

Maintenance has in all departments, as usual, been charged to working account.

CHANGES MADE

As told you last year, we had decided to lengthen, widen and deepen the Cosmopolitan Dock and that plans were being prepared for carrying out the work. It will be lengthened 143'0", the width of entrance will be increased by 10'6" (mean) and deepened 3'0". The entrance has now been cofferdammed, the Dock is perfectly dry and the work is being proceeded with. The alterations are being and will be carried out by our own staff. The probable cost will be from Taels 350,000 to Taels 400,000 and we hope to have the work completed in about twelve months.

We have sold the New Dock Property to the Nippon Yusen Kaisha, to be used exclusively for wharves and godowns, for Shanghai Taels eight hundred thousand (Tls. 800,000) but there may be a slight reduction in the price owing to the Chinese authorities asking for the surrender of some of the land for a road, this we hope to have settled shortly. As soon as the sale is completed and payment made for the property your directors intend to add to the amount received a sufficient sum to enable them to propose to the shareholders a reduction of capital by a cash return of Tls. 25.00 per share.

A resolution to give £1,000.00 to the Sailors' War Orphans' Fund will be put later and we feel it will meet with your approval.

Before moving the adoption of the report and accounts, I shall be pleased to answer any questions to the best of my ability.

There were no questions.

The following resolutions were then put to the meeting and passed unanimously:

Proposed by Mr. John Prentice, seconded by Mr. R. S. F. McBain: That the directors' report and statement of accounts made up to April 30, 1921, as printed and circulated be adopted and passed, and that the directors be authorised to pay a final dividend of Taels ten per share to shareholders on the register at date.

Proposed by Mr. A. L. Anderson, seconded by Mr. W. Wakeford Cox: That Mr. John Prentice and Mr. A. Brooke Smith be re-elected directors of the company.

Proposed by Mr. John Prentice, seconded by Mr. A. Brooke-Smith: That the sum of one thousand pounds be donated to the Sailors' War Orphans' Fund.

Proposed by Mr. A. A. Brady, seconded by Mr. K. H. Martin: That Messrs. Lowe, Bingham and Matthews be elected Auditors of the company for the current year.

BRIGHT FUTURE

After the ordinary business of the meeting had finished, the chairman said he had been asked to give his opinion regarding the future of the company. "So far," he said, "there has been no improvement, but there are signs that an improvement is taking place at home, and with the expected revival in the export and import trades, and the improvement which is bound to follow in shipping, our business is bound to improve.

"Personally, I have no doubt that we have a good future before us and with today in the bank at fixed deposit Tls. 1,370,000, and to which within the next few days we shall be able to add a considerable amount, we see ourselves in a very strong financial position."

Chinese Consortium Loans 30 Millions On Excess Revenues

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, July 15.—Peking bankers are said to have learned that Mr. Pan Fu, Acting Minister of Finance has about completed plans for a $30,000,000 domestic loan with ample security and they are said to be elated over it. According to the reports the Chinese Consortium will lend this amount to the Government for a period of ten years and bonds will be issued covering the loan. Surplus salt, post office and other revenues will be pledged as security.

The interest rate which has not been announced is said to be satisfactory to both the Government and the bankers.

Since taking office, Mr. Pan has been engaged in putting the financial department on a more efficient basis and in bringing modern business methods into the work. Accounting, filing and general business systems that are being installed are aimed, it is said, to make the department as up to date as that in any ministry of the kind in the west.

Soviets Preserve Tolstoy Estate As National Museum

(Rosta News Agency)

Moscow (via Manchuli), July 11.—In accordance with a decree issued on the 1st instant, the sole control of health resorts throughout Soviet Russia, including all the sea beaches and limans (mud-baths famous for their curative effect) have been turned over to the People's Commissariat of Health. This step has been taken to assure better provision for the health of the working population.

By another decree the Commissariat of Education is instructed to preserve the Yasnaya Poliana, Leo Tolstoy's estate, as a national museum and an educational center. Special measures are to be taken to preserve the buildings and the great thinker's grave. All the farms adjoining the estate are handed over to the Tolstoy Communist Industrial Group which shall control them in cooperation with the People's Commissariat of Agriculture.

Moscow (via Manchuli), July 11.—Replying to a new appeal by the remnants of Wrangel's army, the Serbian Government refuses them permission to reside in Serbia.

TOO MANY "INVALIDS"

(Rosta News Agency)

Blagoveschensk, July 13.—The local department of social welfare is caring for 50,000 "invalids." Considering that Amur province has a population of 370,000, including children, this number of "invalids" is out of all proportion. The local department has been ordered to provide only for those actually incapacitated.

AUSTRALIANS DEFEAT DURHAM EASILY, WINNING BY 10 WICKETS; ENGLAND'S TEAM IS SELECTED

Some 9,000 See Match At Sunderland When Visitors Have Little Difficulty; Leicestershire Beats Somersetshire

(Reuter's Service)

London, July 18.—It is understood that the team to represent England in the Fourth Test Match, which begins on Saturday at Manchester, will be chosen from the following:

Major Hon. L. H. Tennyson (Captain), J. W. H. T. Douglas; P. G. H. Fender; C. S. Marriott; Woolley; Brown; Hearne; Durston; Hallows; Strudwick; Ernest Tyldesley; Russel; Mead and Parker.

The Match between the Australians and Durham at Sunderland was resumed today, before an attendance numbering some 9,000 spectators. The weather was hot and the wicket excellent.

The Australians who had hit up 200 for five wickets when stumps were drawn on Saturday, were all out for 267.

In their second innings, Durham made 121. The Australians then went in again and made 24 without loss of wicket, thus winning by ten wickets.

Scores:—Durham 1st Innings 168; Australians 1st Innings 267; Durham 2nd Innings 121; Australians 2nd Innings 24 for no wicket.

Tom Gibbons Matched To Meet Carpentier For Light Heavy Title

(Reuter's Service)

New York, July 18.—Tom Gibbons has been matched to meet Carpentier in October for the world's professional light heavyweight championship.

DEMPSEY'S TITLE IS SAFE FOR 5 YEARS

Shortage Of Heavy Timber and Champion's Powers Point To A Reign Of Several Years

As most authorities predicted Jack Dempsey won, and he won by knocking Carpentier out in the early stages of the battle. A knockout in the fourth round is a short fight, but it is what Dempsey can do best.

Carpentier surprised many people with his early start and his wonderful work in the second round. Because of his injured wrist and thumb his defeat does not appear in a bad light, according to cables from New York. But he was bested, and like the man that he had always proved himself to be he admitted that Dempsey is his superior.

And so the laurels will rest undisputed on the American's shoulders until Tex Rickard persuades some fighter that he is competent to wrest the championship from Dempsey. Then maybe he will do it, but it will be several years until such a thing happens. Dempsey should last five years longer if he can secure enough competition to keep him in trim. Then some one will come along and will whip Dempsey just as bad as Dempsey whipped Jess Willard in 1919.

But who will that man be? Who is destined to become the next heavyweight champion of the world? A glance down the possibilities shows Fulton, Cox, Roberts, Wills, Greb, Brennan and Gibbons. Yes, there can be no doubt of the fact that there is a great shortage of heavy timber.

Fred Fulton can't produce. He couldn't even get backing. Cox has been training in secret for about a year in order to stage a comeback. He may comeback but hardly strong enough to dethrone Dempsey. Roberts and Wills will never be quite equal to the occasion, and Brennan hasn't got enough stuff either.

That eliminates everyone but Greb and Gibbons. They are both rather light and young in the ring. Greb may produce if sufficient time is given him, but the best chances are those of Tommy Gibbons.

He is young and inexperienced and undeveloped yet, but this year should see him start his march forward with a well-deserved victory or two. Then another year or two will put him in the top rankers. It will take time for him to eliminate everyone up to Dempsey, but he has the best chances of anyone of doing it.

B.A.T. Eleven Meets S'hai Cricket Club Team This Afternoon

GREATEST FIGHT IN THE WORLD

Contest Between Gink Fowler And Tarzan Ends In Matching Contest

When speaking of careful fighters don't overlook the Bertillon records of Gink Fowler. He never overlooked a punch. When the Roughtown Peace Commission decided to celebrate the anniversary of Cassie Chadwick's birthday Gink was paged in the Roughtown Comic College which was the center of the population of the U. S.

Gink accepted the straw vote. His opponent was Tarzan Mack. Tarzan was a bad guy to meet on a bright day. He was so tough he slept on corrugated iron sheets and got rid of headaches by slapping himself on the skull with a hammer. They tried to pull the Santa Claus stuff on him when he was a week old, and Tarzan bounced his bottle off his father's head so hard that the old man thought he was in Heaven and rushed down to the hock shop with his halo.

NOT A FRONT RUNNER

Whenever there was a wolf hunt in the West, Tarzan used to hide in the cellar. But Gink wasn't scared of anybody. In a fight he was as calm as Bolo Pasha, cooler than the Russian war debt and more scientific than the Rockefeller Institute. There was a funny thing about Gink. He was clever; you couldn't put a glove on him, but he never won a fight until he had been knocked down six times. Every time he did a close-up with the canvas, the resin acted like a Spring tonic.

Everybody in Roughtown who could get out on bail was at the ringside that night. Tarzan started in to raid Gink at the jump. Gink's chin stumbled over Tarzan's fist and Gink started to settle like coffee grounds. He took the full count and also reached for the watch, but the referee jumped into a neutral zone near the water bucket. Gink's national flag was a towel and he was ready to salute the colors.

But Tarzan made the mistake of knocking Gink down again, and Gink started to get madder than a guy riding past his station. He got up and his nose tripped over Tarzan's knuckles and down he went like German money. He would have made a great pantomime actor on a dark stage. The fourth time Gink folded up his pals knew that he was going to win the cockles.

JUDGES HONOR GINK

Gink had his nose on the canvas six times without bending his neck. The seventh time he got up fighting and landed the same way. The eleventh round trip found him strong and kipper, but Tarzan had weakened himself trying to make the weight on a busted scales.

Gink had been knocked down twenty-seven times in fourteen rounds. His seconds slipped him a hypo of sarsaparilla and Gink started in to leap. He was getting stronger and started to fall toward Tarzan instead of away from him. He tapped Tarzan with a left at the same time that Tarzan oiled him with a right.

Tarzan fell on his back deader than a bad check. Gink was out too, but as he started in to flop he had enough ring generalship to turn around and land face up.

They both laid there faces up. The judges awarded the fight to Gink because he had matched Tarzan.

EERMAN TO FIGHT FOR LYNCH'S TITLE

Former Bantamweight Champion Will Meet Titleholder At Ebbets Field July 25

Joe Lynch, world's bantamweight champion, and Pete Herman, New Orleans Italian who formerly held the title, will clash in a return bout for the championship at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, July 25, under the auspices of the International Sporting Club.

Under the terms of the contract signed by the principals and their respective managers, seventy percent of the net profits from the bout will be divided between the boxers. The first $37,500 of this amount will go to Champion Lynch and what remains will go to Herman. It is announced by the I. S. C. that a popular scale of price will be adopted for the battle. Members of the club will be admitted to the bout free.

In signing this contest, the I. S. C. officials secured what promises to be one of the best ring attractions of the outdoor season. Unusual interest centers about a return battle between Herman and his conqueror, particularly at this time, when Herman is fighting in better form than when he held the title. Prominent promoters through the eastern section of the country have been angling for the match.

Herman lost the title to Lynch Dec. 22 in a fifteen-round battle at Madison Square Garden. The west side Irishman gained the judges' decision over Herman after convincingly outpointing the champion. Herman's boxing on that occasion reflected a sharp reversal of form, for against the aggressive, clever and hard-hitting Lynch, Herman boxed almost exclusively on the defensive. Immediately following the battle Herman sailed for England where he knocked out Jimmy Wilde, sensational little British flyweight. Returning to the United States Herman engaged in an active campaign against bantamweight rivals in an endeavor to prove his qualifications for a return meeting with Lynch. Eddie Mead, manager of Lynch, repeatedly announced his willingness to arrange a return meeting just as soon as his demands were met, and promoters have been bidding wildly for the match for the last several months.

Herman has demonstrated his form in the many matches in which he has engaged since returning from abroad. The combativeness and hurricane attack which he showed previous to his defeat by Lynch have again been reflected in the campaign of the former champion for another crack at the title. Lynch, too, has engaged in several bouts since winning the title, and has kept his laurels intact.

The forthcoming championship battle is one of a series the I. S. C. plans for the outdoor season at Ebbets Field. The club officials announced that at least four other important matches will be held. It is probable that at least two championship battles will be included in the list of bouts for the Summer.

The I. S. C. is said to have the consent of Jack Britton, world's welterweight champion, to a match in defense of his title, and negotiations are understood to be in progress for a bout in which Johnny Kilbane, leader of the featherweight division, will appear against a formidable foe.

Efforts also may be made to induce Johnny Wilson, middleweight champion, and Benny Leonard, lightweight champion, to defend their laurels in bouts under the auspices of the I. S. C.

Hong Doubles Teams Enter Semi-Finals Of Tourney

The Shanghai hong doubles championship goes to the semi-finals with Andersen, Meyer and Co. to play Mitsui Bussan Kaisha, and White Cooper, Master and Harris opposed to the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation. The two winning teams will then battle for the 1921 championship.

Andersen, Meyer and Co. represented by Dawson and Wythe, drew a bye in the first round, beat American Trading Co. in the second, Probst Hanbury and Co. in the third, and Eastern Extension Australasia and China Telegraph, 6-2, 6-4, in the fourth.

Mitsui Bussan Kaisha (Tanaka and Okada) won from Reiss and Co. in the second, Brunner, Monde and Co. in the third, and from Asiatic Petroleum Co. in the fourth by scratch. Mr. Tanaka was runner-up in the singles championship last year.

White Cooper, Master and Harris (Master and Brown) beat Edward Wheen and Sons in the first round, Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation (Graham and Hansell) in the second, Union Insurance Society of Canton in the third, and Shanghai Stock Exchange in the fourth 6-3, 6-4. Master and Brown make an exceptionally strong team.

Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation (Canavarro and Collaco) won from Bradley and Co. in the second round, beat Hall and Holtz in the third, and the Russo-Asiatic Bank in the fourth, 6-2, 2-6, 6-0.

Big League Teams Are Breaking All Records For Hits And Scoring

The remarkable increase in spring batting noted in the major baseball leagues this season is confirmed by a comparison of the records for the first month with a similar period in 1920 and 1919. The resultant gain in runs scored is even of greater proportion.

Figures for the first 30 days of 1919, 1920 and 1921 series follow:

	Games	Runs	Hits
NATIONAL LEAGUE
1919 ..	88	669	1,470
1920 ..	89	685	1,568
1921 ..	95	808	1,765
AMERICAN LEAGUE
1919 ..	90	652	1,468
1920 ..	90	778	1,596
1921 ..	90	900	1,821

Benny Leonard To Remain In Fight Game Six Months

Dame Rumor frequently has announced that Benny Leonard, world's champion lightweight pugilist, planned to retire from fighting and Benny himself has never maintained that he expected to make boxing his life work, but now, for the first time, the prince of the smaller boxers actually has set it down in writing that he is going to forsake the business that made him famous.

Leonard, in a letter to Floyd Fitzsimmons, promotor of the Leonard-Friedman fight which was scheduled for July 4, announces that he will remain in the ring game a maximum of six months longer.

During the next six months, Leonard says, he will meet all the worth while opponents left in the lightweight field, clean them out, and retire with half a million dollars, while I still have two good ears and a straight nose.

"I have two good ears and my nose is still just as nature wanted it to be," writes Benny. "I have never won any beauty prizes, but I'm very proud of the fact that I have exposed these parts to perhaps a million boxing gloves—and still have preserved them. I mean to keep them too.

"I am worth half a million. I have made investments that pay sufficient to keep myself and my family for the rest of our lives. No, the world is mistaken if it thinks Benny is going to go the way of many others in the profession.

"When I have met all the worth while opponents in the field, and I do not think that will require more than six months more, I'm going to put the old gloves in the moth balls and call it quits. The boxing world has been kind to me and I'm going through to the finish. Then, I don't think the fans will have any complaint. I do not believe any of my friends care to wish 'tin' ears or a broken nose on me for life—and I want to have something to say about it anyway."

CAVALRY NINE FROM MANILA, WITH DIAMONDS OF OSAKA, PLAYING SERIES IN TIENTSIN

Colored Aggregation From Philippines, With Slowtime Evans, Parker And Jordon, Plan To Come Here; Six Teams In Tourney

There's a whole lot of outside baseball talent in China right now, talent of the very first quality—but it's not in Shanghai.

Tientsin today is the center of baseball interest. There the boys from the 15th Infantry, and the Peking Marines, the two North China teams which played here during the Open Championship games held in connection with the Spring Olympics are opposing the invasion of two of the best baseball aggregations in the Far East, the Osaka Diamond team which represented Japan here at the Olympics last month and the team of the Ninth Cavalry from Manila.

The Diamond team is visiting Tientsin on a tour of China. It has already played at Tsingtao, and expects to engage in further play in China. The Ninth Cavalry team is touring China by special arrangement after copping the Army League pennant in Manila. The Peking Marines are down at Tientsin for the tournament.

The Ninth cavalry nine, which is playing its last games before approaching expiration of foreign service for many of its men, contemplated, before they left Manila, a series of games not only in Tientsin and Peking, but in Shanghai as well. Manila press notices received yesterday state that the Cavalry team plans to come to Shanghai and play a series here with the Civilians.

But three old timers of the colored baseball team remain in the 1921 lineup. These are Claud (Slowtime) Evans, the versatile, leisurely pitcher and first sacker; Carl Jordon, the catcher who won such fame for his backstopping and his peg to second, and Roy Parker, the short stop. All of the other players with the team are strangers to local fans.

The following men are in the Cavalry party. First Lieut. H. B. Waddell, Sergt. Richard Miller, Corporals Lockhart H. Barnett, Claud Evans, Carl A. Jordon, Johnson H. Lumpkins, Charles E. Pearson, Williams L. Scott, Azel Savage, and Privates Madison Young, Roy Parker, James Thompson, Ernest S. Duff, Lewis R. Rowlett, Wilson Martin, and James C. Truitt.

The Tientsin tournament provides for sixteen days of baseball. The series began last Sunday. Six teams are competing: The Ninth Cavalry, the Diamond team, the Marines, the 15th Infantry, the Tientsin "Cits," and the "All Stars," the latter a picked aggregation from the Tientsin Civvies and the 15th Infantry. Yesterday the All Stars were booked against the Diamonds; today the Infantry plays the Ninth Cavalry, tomorrow the Japanese and the Cavalry meet.

Jinx Is Trailing English Athletes Running Saturday

(Reuter's Service)

Swampscott, Mass., July 18.—Misfortune seems to be dogging the English athletes and is detracting from the interest in the inter-varsity Oxford-Cambridge, Yale-Harvard athletics, which are to be held on the 23rd. instant. Trowbridge is suffering from appendicitis and will not compete; McInnes has a severe bronchial attack and Stallard's foot is causing him trouble, but the doctor hopes that both will be fit by Saturday.

Sporting Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Dear Sir:—The Manila newspapers, arriving today on the Shinyo Maru, state that the 9th Cavalry team, which should now be in Tientsin, plans a trip to Shanghai.

It seems to me that the committee of the Shanghai Amateur Baseball Club should let those who paid ten dollars (to see a little baseball) know whether the Cavalry is coming here or not.

I also note in your paper that the Diamonds of Osaka, after playing in Tsingtao, will go to Tientsin.

Has the local Baseball Club made any effort to bring either team to Shanghai?

I am sure that the local baseball public would loyally support the attempt, both financially and otherwise.

What is that old saw about pittiless publicity?

Very truly yours,
CRICKETER.

COURT GOES BACK TWO CENTURIES TO DECIDE CASE

Tablets In Ancient Grave Mound Unearthed As Evidence

Abe Lincoln once ruffled the leaves of the almanac to some advantage, showing that there had been no full moon on the night several months previous when his client was alleged to have been seen climbing a fence with part of the complainant's poultry, or melon crop, or something; and other pryings into the past for evidence to settle legal argument may be found upon the record books. But the Mixed Court has shaded most of these instances by digging back some two hundred-odd years for testimony upon which it based a ruling made yesterday.

The dispute, which first came into court several months ago, concerned ownership of a bit of land along Connaught Road and the court's excursion into antiquity involved the opening of a grave and the reading of the epitaphs of the defendant's great-great grandparents, who have been among their ancestors for more than two centuries.

The original petition in the case was filed by Mr. H. C. Mei on behalf of Sung Chiu-dong and set forth that on the eighth day of the first moon of this year Yih Woo-zoong, "without the least color of right," invaded the premises under controversy and erected a bamboo fence around certain graves thereon, claiming it as his, defendant's ancestral burying place. The plaintiff claimed the property as his own by ancestral grant and prayed an injunction restraining the defendant from further trespass on the land and an order for the removal of the bamboo fence.

In his answering petition, Yih, represented by Mr. L. K. Kentwell, denied plaintiff's right to the graves. The property, it was admitted, had been transferred to the Sung family by the Yihs many years ago, but the graves had been reconveyed to the latter by the present plaintiff's father for a consideration of 72,000 cash. The defendant had only stepped in and installed the fence and posted coolies on guard when it became known that the Sungs were selling the land and a portion of the grave mound had already been removed.

On May 3 Assessor Blackburn and Magistrate Yui ordered that the grave be opened in the presence of the parties and representatives of the Mixed Court and that the result of the search be reported. There was some delay and another similar order was made by the court on June 7. A few days ago the order was carried out and the tablets of Yih Kung-fah and his wife, Yih Dau-sz, who flourished under the reign of the Emperor K'ang Hsi, were brought to light and yesterday were brought to court. The characters were of a peculiar style and the writing read from left to right instead of from top to bottom, but the inking was as clear and well preserved as though the placques had been buried for but a few years time. The court announced its finding that the graves are those of the defendant's family, and the plaintiff's petition was dismissed.

Which doubtless eased the mind of Yih and his kin, but afforded no relief to the Chinese attache of the court who was assigned, with a foreign representative, to conduct the exploration of the tomb. On the day following the digging up of the tablets this worthy came to the foreign representative and made anxious inquiry as to the latter's health. The foreigner was constrained to admit that he wasn't feeling up to much. Whereupon the other's face sagged woefully and he unreeled a wrong list of symptoms and gloomily gave it as his opinion that worse affliction was in store for the pair of them by reason of their ghoulish dislocation of the repose which had been the pleasant lot of those two spirits for lo, these many years.

Peking Authorises Half Month's Pay For Navy Men Here

Threats Of Resignation Bring Offer Of Part Of Back Salary

In response to the threat of the naval officers in Shanghai to resign en bloc unless their salaries are paid, the Ministry of the Navy has instructed Admiral K. K. Lang, Commander-in-Chief of the Chinese Navy, to pay these officers and men half a month of the pay in arrears immediately.

Admiral Lang has circulated a wireless message to all the ships in this vicinity to send their representatives to the admiralty for the payment at once.

The navy officers and men in this part of China had not been paid for four months.

Drastic Law To Stop Traffic In Narcotic Drugs

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, July 15.—Terms of imprisonment ranging from five to twelve years and fines from $1,000, to $3,000 are to be imposed on anyone convinced of smuggling, selling or using narcotic drugs, according to a circular letter sent out today by the Ministry of Justice to magistrates throughout the country. The letter calls attention to the fact that foreign governments are complaining of the increase in the opium and general narcotic traffic and that in addition to this it is undermining the efficiency of all classes. The police and magistrates throughout the country must make every effort to stop the evil, the instructions say, before the traffic gets entirely out of hand.

Ho Orders Arrest Of All Bolshevik Propagandists Here

The Defense Commissioner of Shanghai, Major-General Ho Fung-lin yesterday instructed the local military police to arrest members of an organisation of Bolshevik propagandists sent to China by the Bolshevik Government.

The Commissioner some time ago received instructions from the Joint Bureau of the General Staff and the Ministry of War to look out for these propagandists, who are described by Peking as agents appointed by the Bolshevik Government among the radical nationals of Russia, China and Korea. Sixty of these were supposed to be sent to China, each of the three nations having 20 members.

FRANCE SEEKS TO RAISE POPULATION BY MARRIAGE LAW

Bill Introduced In Chamber Eliminating Required Consent Of Parents

TO AVOID INEQUALITIES

Change Proposed Putting Husband And Wife On The Same Footing

Paris, June 11.—France is making a vigorous effort by means of propaganda to increase the number of marriages so as to build up her population depleted by the war. Even the church officials are willing to aid in the movement as far as the marriage of others is concerned, the noted Abbe Lemire presenting a bill before the Deputies recently which will put France in the same class as other nations where marriage is possible on attaining the age of maturity without waiting for the consent of the parents.

The laws of the Roman Catholic Church have never insisted on parental consent, declaring that the matter concerns only the individuals who are members to the contract, but a civil ceremony has never been possible unless the parents gave their consent a week in advance. This resulted in the scrapping of many good intentions and the setting up of housekeeping on an illegal basis without worrying about ceremonies.

At the same time prominent parliamentarians are again proposing a change in the marriage laws which will remedy existing inequalities, chiefly the phase which today obliges a husband in return for wifely obedience to protect her, but not necessarily to render her the same obedience. Suffragists especially are eager for this, declaring that if the law is amended it will be the first real step toward granting feminine rights.

But all leaders of Parisian thought do not agree that a change is necessary. Fanny Heldy expressing the opinion at the close of a rehearsal at the Paris Opera that if a husband is really superior it would be a pleasure to obey him. As for the protection pledge, "we are able to take care of ourselves," says Mlle. Heldy.

Mme. Colette, favorite of the literary world and having a double matrimonial record, admits that although the marriage act has twice been read before her she has never paid any attention to it and therefore it doesn't matter whether it is changed or not.

Helene Dutrieu, the only French aviatrix wearing the Legion of Honor decoration declares outright that woman was created to obey the male, and besides "as it is so easy not to marry, a legitimate ceremony compensates for little inconveniences."

'Chu Chin Chow' Makes Biggest London Run

Play Once Doomed Is Still Drawing Crowds; Five Year Record

London, June 11.—Instead of saying "before the war" when they want to indicate the time before the great conflict in theatrical circles in London it is now the custom to say "before 'Chu Chin Chow.'" This theatrical fixture seems destined to remain for some time. Three weeks ago it was announced that it would close at His Majesty's Theater, but now the producers are advertising the 2,200th performance, with the posters pasted over "Chu Chin Chow's" death notice.

The announcement of the closing of the play caused such a rush of business that it was decided to continue it for several weeks more.

No play in the history of the stage in London has had such a phenomenal run as has "Chu Chin Chow," and its fifth complete year will be ended soon. It claims the distinction of having carried on during several enemy bombing raids in the war and has entertained the delegates to half a dozen allied conferences here.

MRS. J.A. STILLMAN LAMENTS LIFE OF WALL ST. MEN

Struggle For Power, Mania For Money, Makes Them Abnormal, She Declares

ANALYSES HER HUSBAND

'I Look On Him As I Would On A Sick Man In A Hospital,' She Says

LIKENS HIM TO BOLSHEVIK

'He Tried To Demolish His Own Home And Fling The Wreckage All Over World'

Poughkeepsie, June 14.—"I look on him as I would on a sick man in a hospital." "He is abnormal." I feel that he is worse than a Bolshevik in what he is doing."

The three sentences are from a discussion of James A. Stillman by Mrs. James A. Stillman in the course of a talk today with newspaper men—a decidedly impromptu sort of interview—conducted partly on the wide porches of John E. Mack's home where the former "Fifi" Potter is awaiting tomorrow's resumption of the divorce hearings, and concluded in a big wheat field several miles south of the point where Poughkeepsie leaves off and Wappinger Falls begins.

Calmly and with a curiously impersonal interest and tone Mrs. Stillman analysed the character and intent of the former President of the National City Bank. She did not at any time raise the conversational level of her voice in speaking of the author of the charge of infidelity against her and illegitimacy against Baby Guy Stillman.

Mrs. Stillman's landaulet, a speedy type of specially designed motor, was at the curb when reporters arrived. Chauffeur George Goeller spoke of the delights of fine weather when an attempt was made to ascertain the destination of his mistress, but while he was evading questions Mrs. Stillman herself appeared in the doorway of the Mack home.

'YOU WIN,' TELLS REPORTERS

And, seeing all escape cut off, she laughed, perched herself on the arm of a wicker chair, waved the news gatherers to her, and said:

"You win, I suppose you want to interview me."

She was assured that was the case. "Well," she began, then paused and went into a thoughtful silence.

While she pondered one had opportunity to observe her. About middle height and slender—youngish looking and adding to this impression by a quickness of gesture and step. Black bobbed hair with a few stary strands peeping out from a bandana wrapped about the head in the fashion she set when she was "Fifi" Potter. No rings—not even a wedding band. Around the neck that was just beginning to reflect a Dutchess County sunburn, an ornately fashioned necklace, made of links of heavily chased gold. Clothes carried well, but severely simple. The skirt, a plaited affair of unfinished worsted, Harding blue in hue, topped by a brown vestee over a white silk waist fronted with unbleached linen—but one turned quickly as she broke the silence with:

"I don't want to be interviewed. What can I say that would be of interest—really—"

"Why," it was suggested, "what do you think of Mr. Stillman?"

HER ANALYSIS OF STILLMAN

A shake of the head. Another pause. More thought. Two children homeward bound from somewhere—one about Guy's age, it might be guessed—toddled along the sidewalk far out at the edge of Mr. Mack's well-trimmed lawns. And Mrs. Stillman, for the second time since this case became public property, was talking.

"I look on Mr. Stillman as I would look on a sick man in a hospital. He has many admirable qualities, but he is abnormal like so many Wall Street men, for remember, Mr. Stillman is not the only one of his kind—not by a long shot.

"The fault seems to lie with the lives they lead down there. The constant struggle for power, power, more power and still more power—that is the life of some of the men in the street. The eternal mania for making money. It is this power complex in such men that turns them away from their equals in their moments of rest from business, in their moments of relaxation.

"They turn to their inferiors because they want nothing to do with persons who consider themselves their equals in anything. So it was that Mr. Stillman turned to that poor Mrs. and filled his yacht with women. Was it eight or ten of them?

"He would have nothing to do with his own family. Such women as those I have spoken of are mere

Mrs. 'Fifi' Potter Stillman

"TRIED TO DEMOLISH HOME"

"Just consider: Mr. Stillman's eldest son refused to shake hands with his father after hearing of his way of living. Think of that. Doesn't it show that there was an abnormal condition of mind in Mr. Stillman? For surely this was not a normal family condition.

"Then Mr. Stillman tried to destroy his own home, to demolish it and fling the wreckage all over the world. I mean just that, for it went all over the world. Why, I had a letter from Japan on this matter. It is not merely a city or a State affair, or even a matter that affects the United States only. This thing has literally gone all over the world. It is not a beautiful thing to have to say, but it is truth.

"A man of great wealth and power strikes at his own family and the foundations of his home. If the home and family can be crushed to fragments in such fashion, what is to become of the State, and of civilisation itself, I can almost say, if it does not seem to be attaching too much importance to myself?

"I think that what I am passing through is of value to the world's women and to society, in its broadest sense, for if this thing that Mr. Stillman is attempting can be done, it will give endless encouragement to the Socialists and anarchists of the world.

"Already they, the radicals, are pointing to us as people of high position and asking what is to become of them if we are allowed to wreak our wills on the world regardless of the laws of morality which we are supposed to uphold.

"So I feel that Mr. Stillman is worse than a Bolshevik in what he is doing and it convinces me that he is an abnormal person, as I have said. I feel keenly what all this means. I can appreciate the feelings of those socialistic people who would stone us for permitting these things to be. But it is not of my doing.

"Yet I could scarcely blame any one who did attack us in the circumstances.

"And remember, again, that Stillman is not the only person indulging himself in such reckless fashion. He is not the only one in New York—not by a long shot."

At this juncture, little Mary Ann Mack, who is freckled and about 5 or 6 years of age, came out onto the porch. The talk was broken off promptly, and with her arm around the child's shoulders, Mrs. Stillman struck up a brisk chat with the unsuspecting interloper.

"As a matter of fact, Mrs. Stillman," the question was put, "aren't you waging your fight more for Guy than yourself?"

"Well," came the answer, "I always loved children. I understand children and they seem to understand me. The young people of what is called society always were my favorites. I always fought to have their 'rights' recognised. But rich men's children do not have so good a time because their parents are rich. They are almost to be pitied because they do not have the chance to develop like other children do. They are often laughed at for their attempts to wake up.

SAYS RICH ARE NOT HAPPY

"The rich are not happy. It is not happiness to have eighteen servants. It is not happiness to have the chair pushed under one at the table. It is rather a bore and one sickens of it if one has any breadth of understanding."

So much and Mrs. Stillman decided on a spin and a tramp. There came a whirl down the streets, a flash through the lane of trees arching the Albany Post Road leading to Beacon, N. Y., a detour through Wappingers Falls and again out between fields white with daisies. Several miles beyond Wappingers Falls, and close by a farmhouse, an abrupt halt. Mrs. Stillman left her car. The newspapermen left theirs.

Mrs. Stillman lead the way. It was over a stone wall with a treacherous bit of barbed wire nestling like a trap in poison ivy. Incidentally, she discovered the twining irritant and disclosed that if she feared anything, she feared poison ivy—"I had a terrible time with it once."

Thence the way led through a field, waist-high with wheat through which Mrs. Stillman trudged with gusto.

"Isn't this nice?" she asked, beaming. "Isn't this great? No houses crowding down on the streets here, no gasoline to taint the air."

But the questioners were again ranged on the stone wall and she was saying:

"I am an individualist. I think I have won my spurs as the equal of any one in my family. I feel that equality should be recognised in all women who have attained it."

MANY OF STILLMAN TYPE

A few more questions turning the talk back again to the banker.

"Mr. Stillman," she said, following the lead, "was not as bad a man as one of his advisers has succeeded in making him out to be. That adviser is essentially a woman-hater who does not believe in any woman. He would be glad to crush and kill me, I think, and he has complained that I am always crawling out of the holes in which he is trying to bury me. But I intend to keep right on crawling out. That is what they have made me do.

"There are many men of Stillman's type of mind, abnormal, but unlike him, they believe that no woman has any right to life, much less to happiness, and least of all to equality. On the other hand, Mr. Stillman had some real friends, splendid people who recognised the good qualities that he possessed. They have written to me in amazement and with sympathy.

"This affair will teach a lesson to a certain type of man that will not be forgotten soon, for American gentlemen, rich and poor, of normal mind, do not treat the women of their families as Stillman and others have done. The people of America will not long tolerate it."

That ended the talk, for Mrs. Stillman climbed back into the machine for a spin through the country that kept her from returning to the Mack home until late in the evening.

U. S.-ENGLAND AIR LINE TRIPS OVER ATLANTIC IN 2 DAYS

British Company Promises Comforts Of Steamships At £50 A Passenger

London, June 11.—A biweekly airship service across the Atlantic is one aim of an all British aerial transport company now in process of formation. It is estimated that the journey can be made in 48 hours. Passengers will be provided with every simple comfort obtainable on a steamship. Light freight and mails also will be carried.

This dream of the ages appears much nearer realisation than is generally thought outside of the small circles of designers and experts who keep patiently working on their cherished ambitions despite the cloud under which the airship passed from the military tangent.

The new company proposes to maintain regular services of both airships and airplanes, the planes to run daily to Paris, Brussels and Amsterdam and the airships to America and Canada. According to the plans the planes will be entirely of metal and will carry parachutes. They will be able to land safely both on land and in water.

£50 FARE WILL BE CHARGED

The airships will be able to carry fifty passengers and will contain sleeping cabins, a dining room and a smoker lounge, while efficient chefs will provide the best of meals. All this will be for a fare of £50, which is not more than the first class fare on a steamship.

This all would not be possible under the original plans of the R-37, sister ship to the ZR-2, but she will now be built for commercial purposes. The R-37 is in the Royal Airship Works' hanger at Cardington alongside America's ZR-2, but the builders expect to finish her despite the action of the Air Ministry in trying to give away all airships now flying.

The British ship will be different because the ZR-2 is essentially a service craft. The former is almost certain to be changed, for the designs already drawn include staterooms. These are arranged so as to be more comfortable than the staterooms on steamships because they are more roomy. They have two bunks and are high enough so as not to inconvenience one in moving about.

There is a collapsible table to be used for eating or cardlng playing. Sliding windows opening on the side of the ship will afford an excellent view outside. It is planned to have a series of these staterooms accommodating two passengers on each side of the ship.

This ship will be heavier and therefore probably slower than the Zr-2, with a lower ceiling, but she can sacrifice 10,000 feet and still attain 15,000 feet, which, as every aviator knows, is high enough for comfort and usually too high to keep warm.

DEMONSTRATE FOR BUYERS

The R-36 is already equipped for passengers along the same general lines but less elegant. She will carry between thirty and forty passengers. A series of demonstrations under Major Scott, who piloted the R-34 across the Atlantic, are being planned for any firm that is interested in taking her over.

Engineers and designers here refuse to be discouraged by the action of the Air Ministry in scrapping airships. They have specifications for airships that will surpass anything in existence in capacity, power, speed, comfort and general utility. A determined group of experts believe that in a great measure the future of aviation depends on the development of the airship. And while with it they cannot compete with certain stunts possible with airplanes, they insist that they are not building airplanes and that airshipping is an entirely different business as distinctly apart from airplaning as Fulton's ideas were from those of George Stephenson.

Secretary Hughes And Baron Shidehara Open Parley On Big Issues

(Note: Later cables show that much progress has been made along the lines here indicated. See today's cables, for instance.)

Washington, June 15.—Conversations have been begun between Secretary of State Hughes and Baron Kijuro Shidehara, the Japanese Ambassador to the United States, with a view to the settlement of all outstanding problems between the Governments of Japan and the United States, ranging from Yap and the Far East to the California situation.

Satisfactory progress has been made in the conversations so far held and both sides are hopeful that they will be able to reach a solution of all unsettled issues in a spirit of mutual accommodation and toleration without the sacrifice of any vital national principles. Some time will be required to bring the conversations to the point of an agreement on all the matters under consideration, so far as the working out of details is concerned, but it is the expectation of both sides that the two nations will be able to reach accord on the major points at stake before the lapse of many months.

In these conversations representatives of both Governments are understood to be endeavoring to reach a direct understanding without regard to European tribunals on matters which are mainly of direct concern to one or the other of the two nations. If such an agreement can be reached it will not be necessary for the League of Nations Council to seek to compose the differences over Yap and matters such as the restoration of Shantung to China in accordance with the oral promise that Japan has already given.

JAPAN SUGGESTED PARLEYS

The conversations now in progress are understood to have been initiated at the suggestion of Baron Shidehara, acting for his Government, which is represented as being desirous of clearing the decks of all outstanding issues between itself and the United States.

This desire is understood to be based on a realisation that if the questions in controversy between the two Governments drag on indefinitely in an unsettled state, the result will be a growth of unrest and misrepresentation in both countries that will certainly not benefit the relations between them and may lead to dangerous consequences.

It was stated tonight that the responsible leaders of the Japanese Government feel that the time has come when there should be full, free and frank consideration of all points at stake between the two nations in a spirit of good-will, with a view to removing all clouds on their international horizon.

The conversations will be broad enough to take in all the questions in which the two countries have been directly concerned or interested, including the status of the Island of Yap, the regulation of Japanese coolie immigration to the United States, alien property rights, in which Japanese are interested in California, the restoration of Shantung, the attitude of Japan with respect to Siberia and her occupation of the northern half of the island of Saghalien.

If the conversations result in a settlement satisfactory to both countries, it is believed this will mark a long stride in the direction of the maintenance of world peace, and prove an important contribution toward the popular movement in favor of reduction of armaments, for there is no doubt in informed quarters, although officials do not admit it, that the plans for the increase of both the American and Japanese navies have been shaped on each side by fear of a menace from the opposite side of the Pacific. There is no doubt that American naval building plans have in the last few years been based primarily on the possible attitude of Japan in certain contingencies, and that the increases planned for the Japanese navy have been predicated upon American naval construction, and uncertainty with respect to the ultimate future relations of Japan and the United States.

COMPLICATED BY YAP ISSUE

When Secretary Hughes entered the State Department he found that conversations had been in progress between Baron Shidehara and former American Ambassador Morris, in which the two Ambassadors had reached certain identical conclusions with respect to a settlement of the California alien land question and immigration to the United States. The report submitted by Ambassador Morris, embracing the so-called Morris-Shidehara understanding, has been under consideration by Secretary Hughes for three months.

On top of the question covered by that report came the issue with respect to the status of Yap, which involves the whole important problem of the freedom of American communication in the Pacific. Secretary Hughes also found when he entered the Department of State that Secretaries Lansing and Colby had made inquiries of the Japanese Government respecting its attitude toward Siberia and as to the occupation of the northern half of Saghalien Island.

The United States Government has also an interest in the status of Shantung peninsula, which Japan has said she would give back to China.

There has been considerable interest in the United States regarding Japan's intentions with respect to the mainland of Asia and the United States Government has shared the popular interest in this respect. Those in responsible charge of the Government of Japan, including Premier Hara, have insisted that she has no ulterior motives in maintaining troops in Vladivostock, or in Upper Saghalien, and that her chief concern has been the maintenance of peace in the Far East, and in staving off the advance of Bolshevism toward Japan.

JAPANESE PROPAGANDA

The Japanese Government has so stated in official communications to the United States Government in the past year. But there has been propaganda in the United States against Japan and even jingoism in Japan against the United States. Responsible officials in Japan are represented as realising that what they regarded as misrepresentation of Japan in the United States was developing into public opinion that has been causing them considerable concern. They are declared to have come to the conclusion that the wisest course to pursue was to endeavor to reach a mutual agreement on every outstanding issue by direcct negotiations.

If a direct agreement with respect to Yap can be reached between Japan and the United States, such a settlement is expected to be satisfactory to England. France and Italy, which, while interested in the solution of the whole problem of the German cables, have not been directly concerned over Yap, which is of more direct concern to Japan and the United States.

The United States has been in favor of the internationalisation of the Island of Yap as a South Pacific communications base and if Japan assents to the principle of internationalisation, that is expected to satisfy also England and France, which under that plan would not be barred from participation in the use of Yap as a Pacific cable and radio center.

REPLIES TO HUGHES' NOTE

Secretary Hughes sent a note to Japan, England, France and Italy, with respect to Yap, insisting that its status should not be determined without the approval of the United States Government. France and Italy have sent replies to the United States indicating that they assent to the principle laid down by Secretary Hughes. England and Japan have not answered, the reply of the former being understood to have been delayed pending an effort to reach a settlement on Yap that would be mutually satisfactory to the United States and Japan.

Both Secretary Hughes and Baron Shidehara are understood to have entered upon their conversations in a spirit of friendship and accommodation, with a sincere desire to reach a satisfactory settlement of the whole range of questions in which the two nations are concerned. The personalities of the two men are believed to be such as to go a long way in the direction of reaching a settlement.

QUERY AS TO YAP

Washington, June 15 (Associated Press).—It had been expected that the Yap issue would be left to adjustment by the League of Nations Council, which is to meet June 16 in Geneva. The French Government, in answer to the American protest against the award of the mandate for the island to Japan, said that it would bring the subject before the Council. It is understood that the basis for settlement in the negotiation between Ambassador Shidehara and Secretary Hughes will be the internationalisation of the cable privileges on the island.

The proposal is to settle the immigration issue on the basis of the complete stoppage of all Japanese coolie immigration with proper protection for Japanese property rights already acquired in the United States.

Japan's promise to return Shantung to China, it is said, is to be executed as soon as practicable and without reference of the question to any European tribunal. The initial steps have been taken for the evacuation of the portion of the province held by the Japanese the military force having been reduced to between 3,000 and 3,500 soldiers. Advices from Tokio have said that this force would be withdrawn as soon as China provided guards for the railroads and property in the towns.

It is stated that Japan will retain only such privileges in the province as are common to the other nations such as a portion of the international compound, which China is to be required to establish at the Port of Tsingtao, on the Bay of Kiaochou. Japan, it is explained, never has taken over all of the railroad properties formerly operated by the Germans in Shantung, confining her claims to that portion of the railroad from Tsingtao to Tsinanfu, and leaving the important line crossing the province at the latter junction in the hands of the former operatives, under the national control of the Chinese Government. It is proposed that Japan operate the Tsinanfu-Tsingtao branch jointly with the Chinese.

CARD OF THANKS

On the 5th day of the 3rd moon, our junk, "King Yuen Woo", sailing from Daireu to Fukien with a cargo of oil and beans, was attacked by pirates in the Danchow Sea, at Lua Yue Shan (台州洋面勒魚山). Fortunately the Cruiser Liu Sin (流星), controlled by the Coast Inspector of Customs, witnessed the incident. The foreign Chief and Second-in-Command, and other staff, immediately attacked the pirates, who, after some time, fled, and our junk was towed out of danger by the Cruiser.

The Foochow Merchant Vessel Head Association is requesting the Fukien Commissioner of Customs to suitably reward the aforesaid officers.

We are advertising both in the Chinese and foreign newspapers to express our thanks and our gratitude for the timely assistance rendered.

Important Notice

We have perused an article in the Peking and Tientsin newspapers about the sale of the undermentioned Company to the foreigners by Mr. Chang Kien Hoa (張劍豪), which has much surprised us. As this Company is part of the public estate of the "Chang Tzu" (張氏), no person or persons (Chang Tzu) can sell it individually and privately even the public (foreign and Chinese) cannot purchase without legal action. The business of this Company has been growing steadily, its trustworthiness and good financial standings are well known to the public, therefore, no necessity exists to sell to others or to issue any share script. If any mortgage is made through Mr. Chang with others it is to be considered as his personal affair, and this Company will not be responsible for same.

MUNICIPAL LOAN OF 1921

(20,000 debentures of Tls. 100 each).

Rate of Interest 8% per annum

The "Conseil d'Administration Municipale de la Concession Francaise de Changhai" hereby invite subscriptions for 20,000 debentures of Tls. 100 each, according to the resolution passed at their General Meeting of May 30, 1921.

The conditions on which the Debenture Certificates will be issued are:—

1°—The Debenture Certificates are transferable, and the person whose name is entered in the Register of Debenture Certificate or Certificates, shall alone be recognised and treated by the Council as the lawful and rightful holder and owner of such Debenture Certificate or Certificates.

2°—The loan will be redeemable at par (Tls. 100) in not less than 10 years and not more than 30 years, from 1st July, 1931 and according to the figures determinated by the Council.

3°—The loan will bear interest at 8% per annum, payable on the 30th day of June and 31st of December in each year, when interest warrants will be issued to the registered owners.

4°—The property and income of the Municipality, deducting those which serve as security provided in the Municipal Loans of 1903, 1911, 1914 and 1916 are the security for the repayment of the money advanced and for the interest thereon in the present loan.

The Members of the French Municipal Council are not personally liable in any way for the payment of either principal or interests.

5°—Applications for debentures will be received at the Secretary's Office, Rue du Consulat.

A cheque representing the amount of debentures asked for must be deposited at the same time.

6°—Applications for Debentures under par will not be recognised by the Council.

7°—For further informations apply to Mr. P. LEGENDRE Secretary, French Municipal Council.

Shanghai, 1st July, 1921.
P. LEGENDRE,
39234 Secretary.

Hankow Market

The British Chamber of Commerce of Hankow write as follows in their weekly circular dated Hankow, July 13:

FINANCE AND MONEY MARKET

Silver after advancing to 37½d ready and 37d forward, the quotations in London on 11th inst. has again fallen, the quotations cabled from London on 12th inst. being 37d ready, 36½d forward. China has been both a buyer and seller. In sympathy with silver our exchange market has been a firm one and the T. T. rate advanced to T. T. 3/9½d but has since declined to T.T. 3/8½d, the quotation on 13th inst.; there was no demand at this rate however. The quotation for 4 m/s Credits was 3/11½d July-August 3/11¼d forward. The New York-London cross rate shows a further fall 7¾ points during the past week, the closing quotation in New York on 12th inst. being 365⅜. Chinese market rates, Shanghai Tls. 97.2 Local currency $70.2. Native interest 15 percent.

EXPORTS

A fair demand from Europe for Wood Oil continues, but in retail lots. The market for other produce continues quiet largely in consequence of the recent rise in exchange which has brought business to a standstill. America shows very little if any interest in local produce at present.

IMPORTS

Piece Goods.—Dealers have been keen buyers of stocks during the week at increasing rates. A number of sales are reported.

Yarn.—The market is quiet but firm.

Hongkong Share Market

Messrs. Moxon and Taylor of Hongkong write as follows in their weekly share report dated Hongkong, July 15:

We have had a quiet market during the week under review with more sellers than buyers in most commodities. The rise in exchange has also tended to make buyers hold off looking for lower prices.

Hongkong Banks. — After changing hands at $720 close with sales at $710. New shares, £35 paid, are wanted at $410.

Cantons.—Could be placed at $405.

Unions.—Are quiet with sellers at $240.

Hongkong Fires.—Are firm at $320.

Hongkong Docks.—Have been neglected during the week, and close with sellers at $208.

Deferred Indos.—Keep steady at $275 London Register ex dividend and $270 Hongkong Register, with few if any shares offering.

China Sugars.—Have declined to a selling rate of $192.

Cements.—After being neglected during the week close firm with buyers at $17.00 for cash and $17.50 September.

Hongkong Lands.—Are nominal at $199.

Shanghai Docks.—Continue to decline and close with sales at Tls. 138.

Hongkong Electrics. — Have come to business at $23½.

Humphreys.—Close with buyers at $10½.

Shell Transports.—Are wanted at 111/- ex dividend.

Rubber Prices

Messrs. J. A. Wattie and Company have received the following telegram from Messrs. Barker and Company, London dated, July 16:

Average spot price standard quality Ribbed Smoked Sheet 9d.

Average spot price standard quality First Crepe 10d.

Greedy Tuchuns Too Grasping May Have To Refund

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, July 15.—Some of China's militarists have come near killing the goose in their eagerness to grasp every cash in sight and now unless there is a more central and rigid control of Government revenues, foreign loans may be so easy to negotiate hereafter.

Since 1913 the Central Government is supposed to have received the entire income from the salt administration. Some of the Tuchuns, however, have kept some of the funds in their own provinces and have failed to remit proper reports.

The worst offender in this respect has been General Chang Tso-lin and it is said that the Manchurian accounts are badly muddled so far as he is concerned. He is said to have failed to remit large amounts.

Foreign governments are complaining because there was a definite promise in 1913, they say, that the revenues would be turned over to the Central Government.

The foreign governments are now said to fear that if the warlords are permitted to seize and keep salt revenues, it may be only a question of time when they will find a way to seize other revenues such as those from the railroads and post offices.

According to reports today, the Chinese government has demanded that Chang Tso-lin give an accounting. Whether the Government can force it is quite another matter and Chang is continually demanding money from the Government.

STUDY ANHUI COTTON

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, July 15.—The Ministry of Agriculture and Commerce has sent trained technical representaties into the provinces of Chihli, Shantung, Honan, Kiangsu and Anhwei to study the cotton situation.

Sino-Russian Relations

THE publication a few days ago of the Sino-German Agreement, which marks the resumption of formal relations between the two countries, relations interrupted by China's entry into the war, serves to call attention to the necessity for the resumption of formal relations with one or both of the Russias, that is to say, either with Soviet Russia or with the newly founded Russian Far Eastern Republic, or with both.

Only a moment's consideration is necessary to call to mind the vastness of the interests that China and Russia have in common. They have conterminous frontiers, continuous for thousands of miles. Across these frontiers normally an immense trade passes. The full extent of this trade nobody knows, but some idea of its importance may be gathered from the fact that since it has been interrupted the economic life on either side of the frontier has been practically at a standstill, and even the partial resumption following the opening of the Manchurian frontier has only slightly relieved the situation.

The commercial and economic interests that China and Russia have in common are alone of sufficient importance to warrant, even to demand, an early resumption of relations; and the pressing nature of issues in which China and the Far Eastern Republic are concerned suggests that the first step should be the re-establishment of formal relations with the authorities of the Chita Government.

The text of the Sino-German document suggests directly some of the matters requiring immediate attention. Under Article I the two parties accord to each other the right of diplomatic representation in each other's capitals, with all the usual diplomatic immunities and a telegram recently published states that Herr von Borch, who negotiated the agreement on the German side, has been appointed Charge d'Affaires in Peking, while a Charge d'Affaires is already installed in Berlin. In each case a Minister is in course of appointment. There is every reason why the Chinese Government should hasten to follow this precedent in the case of Russia.

The semi-official character of the reception accorded to the Mission of the Far Eastern Republic should be speedily regularised, so that all preliminary matters may be arranged and the way opened for the speedy adoption of full diplomatic relations.

In a matter of this kind, the Chinese Government has been accustomed to follow the lead of other Governments, especially the British and the American governments. The attitude of the British authorities towards the Far Eastern Republic, however, is in itself an argument in favor of independent action on the part of China. In answer to a question in the House of Commons a few days ago the representative of the Foreign Office gave as one of the reasons why Great Britain was not at present opening up relations with the Far Eastern Republic the fact that British interests in that country were not large. The same cannot be said of Chinese interests; and if paucity of interests can be a valid argument for delay in establishing diplomatic relations, then vastness of interests is equally a valid argument for establishing such relations at the earliest possible moment.

There are so many issues awaiting settlement between the two Republics that they cannot be detailed here; but the precedent of the Sino-German Agreement suggests several points the settlement of which would be comparatively easy and would prepare the way for the other issues. Article II for example provides for the appointment of consular and vice-consular agents by the two Governments. The number of Chinese in the Far Eastern Republic is many times greater than the number of Chinese in Germany, and similarly the number of Russians in China is vastly greater than the number of Germans; and the commercial interests involved fully correspond thereto.

Article III of the Sino-German Agreement practically provides for the abolition of extraterritorial status of Germans in China and of Chinese in Germany—though the Chinese of course have never enjoyed such status in Germany. Both Moscow and Chita have declared their willingness to forego the privileges of extraterritoriality for their nationals in China, and the ambiguous position in which Russians in China now stand makes the settlement of this question at the earliest possible moment imperative, in the interests alike of the Russians themselves and the Chinese Government.

Article IV of the Sino-German Agreement brings the Germans into the same status with respect to customs tariff and dues as Chinese citizens. Throughout the period of conventional tariffs between China and foreign powers there has existed a special agreement with respect to trade across China's frontiers. Whether that special arrangement is to be continued or modified is a matter for negotiation, into the pros and cons of which we need not enter here; but there can be no question that the present anomalous state of affairs should be terminated at the earliest possible moment, in the interest both of commercial relations and, as a matter of fact, of frontier peace, for the present uncertainty is giving rise to smuggling and other malpractices, in both directions.

There are many other matters for settlement, the cancellation or other treatment of the Boxer indemnity, the evacuation of the former Russian Legation premises by the representatives of the Tzarist regime, the status of the Russo-Asiatic Bank, the future of the Chinese Eastern Railway, the mutual indebtedness of the two countries, the Ungern affair, and a host of other items. None of these thousand and one questions can be adequately settled except by fully accredited diplomatic representatives, and the establishment of formal diplomatic relations between China and the Far Eastern Republic and between China and Soviet Russia is the essential first step. Everything points to the necessity for taking that first step without delay.

Mr. B. Baer

POPPING AWAY AT POP

All kinds of wild game seem to be protected by law. Except husbands. Once husbands roamed prairies in countless numbers. If ruthless shooting continues unabated species will soon be deader than Sanskrit.

Should be closed season for husbands, just like minnows, muskrats and other small game. Ought to give them three armistice months for 'em to shave and count their money. Broadway was great paradise for husbands once. Used to roam in forests of lamp-posts. Slaughter made them very shy. Immigrated to Long Island, where massacres continued.

Now scattered all over country. Chicago wives are bagging thousands per diem. One Cleveland wife was too tender-hearted to shoot. Hired four stiletto impresarios to carve him like Thanksgiving turkey.

Husbands should band together for protection. Wives getting callous. Seem to be afraid of mice. Stalling. Nothing to gain by shooting mouse, which has no insurance on its life.

Reports from Oklahoma. Small herd of wild husbands seen near here last week. Disappeared toward most inaccessible wilds of Rockies. Led by large roan colored husbands with torn socks.

St. Paul—Mrs. Hammer-Hammer, of Coltsville, has opened her shooting lodge, Remington Arms. Game very scarce, but managed to shoot two small husbands and one 200-pounder.

Arizona—Big round-up of stary husbands will take place next month. They are timid during day, but at night they tramp down young corn and wheat. Wives from all over world are coming to take part in shooting.

Washington—Bill up in Congress to stop indiscriminate shooting of harmless husbands. Will undoubtedly be defeated by lobbyists representing Husband Shooters of America.

THE DOG AHEAD

Miss Pearl White, the famous cinema actress, says that in Texas they still tell the story of the Englishman who imported a famous wolf-hound from Europe in order to gain wealth by catching wolves, for which the state paid a bounty of ten dollars a head.

When the dog came he invited some Texans to see the first chase. Before long a wolf was sighted. The dog was freed from his leash and the chase began, but though the party wandered mile after mile they found no trace of either the dog or the wolf.

Finally they neared a clearing where a native was chopping wood and the Britisher cried: "I say old chap, did you see a wolf and hound passing by here?"

"Sure I did. They just passed."

"And how was the race?"

"Pretty hot, stranger, but the dog was a little bit ahead."

DIPLOMACY

"I say, dad," piped the small boy, "can I ask you a question?"

"Yes," go ahead!" replied the indulgent dad.

"What's diplomacy, dad? I saw it in a book the other day."

"Diplomacy, my boy," said the father with a patronising smile, "means doing or saying precisely the right thing at the right moment."

"Ah! then I was a diplomatist last night, dad."

"Really my boy, and how do you make that out?"

"Why when Mum came in with the castor oil I rolled Bobbie into my place in bed, and then rolled him back before she came round to the other side."

Keeping Fit After Fifty Is Easy, Says Authority

BY DR. WILLIAM G. ANDERSON
(Director of Yale University Gymnasium)

Two simple rules underlying all gymnastic and dietetic effort to keep the body young at fifty years and over will interest men who have turned the half century mark and who are coming up to it; that is, everybody. They will recognise the right of the layer down of these rules because he is director in the famous Yale gym, and additional details about him will be welcome to the reader.

Dr. William Gilbert Anderson of Philosophy and Medicine is himself past sixty, but by carefully adopting his own advice and using selected forms of exercise for the adult he more nearly resembles a man of forty. He was born in 1860 in St. Joseph, Mich.; his father was pastor of a Congregational Church there and a chaplain in the civil war.

"Why does a successful business man disregard the most important investment it is possible for him to make by permitting the machinery upon which he depends entirely for his advancement to become inefficient?"

For some years I have been trying to find an answer to this question, and while not able to furnish a satisfactory explanation I believe I can throw a little light on the subject.

There has been much written lately on the bodily uplift of the fifty-year-old youngster which in itself is suggestive of the demand for something tangible or effective, something that will enable this half century runner to continue.

Years ago I heard a Westerner speak of "raising more corn to feed more hogs to buy more land," and so it seems today that our successful business man wants to travel around in a similar circle, for he whips the body hard to do greater business to swell his bank account, and with exceptions the family comes trotting along afterward and his own physical machinery begins to show signs of giving out. When this stage is reached what does this man do?

He may consult a doctor, who, after devoting time to the examination, recommends a change of diet (never is this factor omitted), orders a change in the daily routine, then finally he passes over the subject of exercise by referring the patient to some physical culture expert.

In the large cities there are a number of competent leaders in the science of body rebuilding, but too often the ailing one is attracted by the Aladdinlike promises of the expert who will cure him while he waits; he will give him wonderful muscles; he will bring him back the alertness of younger days; he will renew his youth, and all this by mail or by actual personal contact.

TIRED BUSINESS MAN TAKES COURSE OF BODY BUILDING

It is the drowning man who grasps at straws, and so our tired but successful business man takes up this form of body building. The first effect is phychological plus some muscle soreness, and the reaction is stimulating, but why go further?

Does he keep it up? No; he gives it up and finds it easier to take a pill or drink medicated waters. It is simpler and he is no longer wearied by lame muscles and does not have to take precious, moneyworth time to go to a gymnasium, where he must undress, exercise, bathe, rest and dress for the street.

I am not belittling the value of rational neuro-muscular training, but dwelling upon the mental attitude of the average man who finds himself in the list mentioned above.

Why is it that a brainy man will permit himself to get into such condition? A man with sane perspective, an observing man, a thinking man?

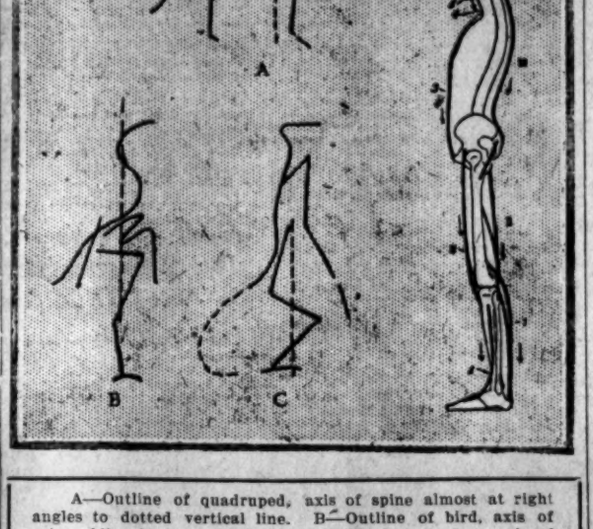
Yet he does, and slowly and insidiously the weakness comes over him, and when too late he arouses himself, only to find that the struggle is too much for him, so he gives up, and by travelling and visiting spas and paying enormous doctor bills, all out of money interest proportions, he plays out and others spend the money he has made.

This man may note the straws in the wind if he will take personal stock, and among the first indications of loss of energy is the unwillingness to exert himself as he used to. In little, almost unnoticed ways he saves himself or does not want to make the effort that a few years ago he would have ridiculed—slight irritability if called to the phone, if asked to go out for the evening, if required to leave his desk to attend a minor detail of business, if called upon to perform duties about the home, etc.

There is generally one cause, and that is growing fatigue; but he won't have it and attributes it to some inactivity of the organs of the body or a slight indisposition, but not to physical retrogression.

SIGNS OF RETROGRESSION AT 50 NOT SERIOUSLY REGARDED

The change in the accuracy of the memory, the tendency to devote more time to introspection of a less happy kind, signs of distrust, lack of old time confidence in himself, less faith in his ability—these are signs of overwork, or fatigue, or giving out—you may select the term you prefer—but when these changes do come then it is safe to say the red flag of danger is flying.



A—Outline of quadruped, axis of spine almost at right angles to dotted vertical line. B—Outline of bird, axis of spine obliquely to vertical. C—Outline of monkey, axis of spine also obliquely to the vertical.
Huxley's diagram of the human, showing need of an erect position.

It is at this time our business man begins to inspect methods of renewing his youth, so he consults his physician with the results above mentioned, but even the doctor is unable to give a prescription of exercise, and it is quite as absurd to say to a wornout, irritable man, "Take exercise," as it is to say go to a drug store and buy some medicine, so he has an interview with the physical culture expert, whose knowledge of developing muscles may be excellent, but whose attainments along dietary, psychological and physiological lines are decidedly limited.

Think of making a tired man take strenuous exercise with the expectation of improving, and yet the patient accepts this very thing; but this patient, a clever business man, would never handle his money in such an unwise way nor "pay too much for his whistle," as Franklin said.

Why does the ordinary individual know so little about these matters? Simply because he has never been educated along these lines; but if this is the case, then why let the children grow up in ignorance of the simple laws of conservation of somatic energy? Let the parent insist that his offspring be educated in these subjects, and his demands will be listened to because he has power, financial and social.

Is our adult ignorant of the laws of inheritance? Not at all; for he knows that there is much in "like father, like son"; but as a business

Hall's Distemper has led the way to a new era in house decoration—the era of brighter, cleaner and healthier homes.

It is the most durable of all decorations, lasting for years with freshness unimpaired, whereas wall-papers deteriorate from the first day by fading and accumulating dust and dirt.

Hall's Distemper is a thorough disinfectant, and is applied directly upon the wall, forming a hard surface, from which dust and dirt may be "spring-cleaned" by lightly sponging with warm water.

investment is he doing much for that child who will come to him, or if already on the scene and paying for the errors of the father is the child to blame? He surely was not consulted before making his babylike bow to this world.

It may seem a waste of time to dwell upon such topics, but the question of health and bodily efficiency is a matter of education, and effectiveness of the methods of procedure will depend upon the training of the ancestors; this is my reason for reiterating old and well worn advice.

The two great instincts in life are procreation and combativeness, and both depend upon physical integrity, both disappear when the body fails, and perhaps in these respects more than in any others men become sensitive and seek bodily rejuvenation; but it comes tardily if at all, so they become further interested in the transplanting of organs.

I have in the Yale gymnasium many looking glasses, before which I want our students to stand and study their physiques. The results are good, for the men develop a healthy interest in their growth and symmetrical development. If it is vanity, then let us be thankful for vanity, but we should not accuse the fair sex of monopolising the mirror. They know a good thing—I am referring to the habit, not the daughter of Eve herself.

I was interested in examining the advertisements in the Photographic Section of The New York Herald for June 5. There were forty of them, and of this number eleven, or over 25 percent, told of cures for the hair or were devoted to the care and beautifying of the hair or saving it. Four told how to reduce fat, five told how to make the form perfect by corsets and stays, four promised velvety skins, one would treat the feet and one promised proper adornment by dress, that is, twenty-six of these advertisements were devoted to saving what was left of youthful good looks or enhancing physical beauty.

Do you recall the lines from Holmes?

"My lady's face can boast no more
The cranberry pink and white it wore;
And where the shining locks divide,
The parting line is all too wide."

We may laugh at the jingle, but that man or woman who daily parts a few strands of hair sees nothing funny in it.

I went yesterday to consult one of our prominent business men and while talking he took from his pocket a small vial, from which he poured a few drops of liquid on a growing bald spot on his head, with the remark: "I seem to be growing bald so I use this stuff; moreover, I am losing my pep and feel like the dickens too much of the time." That was not just the word he used, but it sounds better in print.

GIVES THE WAY TO WARD OFF THAT 'TIRED FEELING'

I am going to tell this business man how he can ward off this tired feeling and how he can benefit his children by making them take the same simple exercises, for they will be twice blessed in getting the personal benefits and in passing the inherited tendencies on to their children.

Will the reader pardon me if I refer to my own experience? I have been in this work just fifty years and for forty of these years I have been a teacher, so there should be some health results, or at least positive ideas, regarding the actual state of affairs in the United States.

I am too busy as chief executive to don a gymnasium suit. I never exercise in the generally accepted fashion, that is, I never go upon the main floor where the apparatus is and I very seldom take the numerous gymnastic motions I seem to be popular, yet I bring strongly into action many times a day the principal groups of large muscles by merely contracting them. This is done by taking the position of a soldier.

Note also how these groups of muscles are outlined in the drawing taken from Huxley. The back of the leg, the front of the thigh, the posterior portion of the hips and all along the back. Many muscles are contracted for only a few seconds at a time, but later the habit of standing well becomes a habit and the contractile tissues take on unusual strength and endurance, even after 50 years of age. This form of gymnastics can be taken at any time and in almost any place and no gymnasium or apparatus or cost is demanded.

Now for the two exercises: First assume a correct standing position, then bend the arms smartly touching the shoulders with the finger tips: at this time force back the abdominal walls, arch to its utmost the chest, press the back of the neck against the collar. Next thrust the two arms upward and bend the body slightly backward. Finally, return to position No. 2 and then to the starting attitude. Do the work with energy and hold each position several seconds.

One will be surprised to note how much energy is required for the work. What has taken place?

The chest has been widened and deepened, the abdominal organs brought back where they belong or nearly so. (In most cases of protruding abdomen there is a displacement of the abdominal viscera, or falling of the organs.) The muscles of the arms, shoulders, back and abdomen are brought smartly into action and the chemical changes which take place result in growth, endurance and increased efficiency.

The lungs are to be filled when the arms are raised above the head and emptied when they are lowered.

The next exercise is for the heart and lungs, which are actively stimulated by rapid leg work.

Several times a day resort to rapid walking, or if in fair condition walk quickly up stairs. Acquire an alert, sprightly walk, and if outdoors keep up the pace for two or more blocks and note the change in the heart beat and in the respiration.

These exercises are recommended to those not in a pathological condition. They are excellent; they are about all I ever take, and I know they are worth while.

The very best developing work I ever did was when I was 48 years of age. A careful record has been kept of the tests which extended over a college year, the results were unexpectedly satisfactory, and the mental reaction splendid. I gained twenty pounds that year.

Then I used apparatus, played a few games and did running. Of course diet always enters into consideration.

May I here sound a warning, and that is to the man who enters business, marries, has a family and carries the responsibilities that come to such a one. Do not try to keep up the muscular pace that you had while in college. Exercise some, but not too much; play the game with ardor, but make it shorter. There are men who claim that twenty years later they can play tennis, handball or squash as they did in college, and no doubt they can, but they pay too great a price, because much energy must go into business, etc.

The busy adult does not require so much muscular activity; a moderate amount is imperative to create metabolism in the tissues, but it is unhealthy to draw too heavily upon the physical bank account by too long periods of exercise.

Man is the only animal who does and can stand erect, and he should keep his spine in normal position every time he has a chance and this gives him much exercise. Try it and see.

Study the obliquity of the spine in the outline drawings of animals and a bird and then compare with the axis of the spine in Huxley's cut.

The question has often been asked: "Is the son better than the father—is he bigger, stronger and more capable physically?"

There is so little difference between the measurements of the present Yale freshman and his father when judged by the girths of chest, waist, legs and arms and the height and weight that we cannot use these comparisons as a criterion. The two sets of measurements are practically the same, the son being a little taller and having a slightly larger chest. He should be more efficient because of the greatly improved methods used in hygiene and in education. It is like comparing two safes of the same size; we do not know how much they hold, but one may have more in it than the other.

A form of exercise I recommend is dancing.

It is known that rational dancing, either social or stage, more or less actively stimulates the action of the heart and lungs. In turn, these activities send fresh arterial blood to the organs and tissues of the body, producing a chemical change, a constructive metamorphosis of the cells which results in improved conditions, in better health. In this respect the dance is good for both old and young.

There are, roughly speaking, two brains—one for movement, the other for intellectual activities. These are closely correlated, are interdependent, and the development of one will materially assist when the other is to be trained.

The muscle brain is called the motor area, the Rolandic division, and, like its sister brain, is made up of millions of cells. Just as soon as a definite circuit can be made among the cells and energy is liberated skilled movement is the result. The muscle has not a scintilla of skill in itself, it is merely a servant.

The greater the number of "circuits" completed, the greater the muscular education of the person and the more reliable is the physical basis of psychic activity. Dancing is valuable in this respect because through pleaseable means permanent and trustworthy circuits are built. The muscularly versatile man possesses good brain substance, which may be easily trained mentally, but like gold hidden in the ground it is valueless unless used. The majority of college athletes stand well as students, many of them receiving honors.

DANCING TO BE COMBINED WITH GYMNASTIC DRILL

Dancing alone will never take the place of gymnastic drill; the two should be wisely combined. Formal gymnastics have so much in their favor that they should not be entirely eliminated from our system of bodily development, but the love for dancing should be utilised by teachers of gymnastics.

The teacher of dancing should adopt gymnastic movements, and the director of physical training should teach dancing movements that have for their object poise, balance and grace.

The subject of exercise for men in middle life is a complex one, and the various subtopics are numerous. In this consideration I have necessarily confined myself to the main theme. For years I have been interested in research work in physical education, especially in those subjects that are closely related to the physical basis of psychic activity.

My conclusion is that versatility in muscular movement develops the brain substance and that here lies one of the sanest arguments for rational athletics and gymnastics.

CAUTION

It has been brought to our notice that very inferior Aerated Waters are sold in Shanghai in our bottles, and purporting to be filled by us, but in reality manufactured in the Chinese city and elsewhere outside the control of the Municipal Health Dept.

While we take the greatest precautions to prevent our bottles getting into unauthorised hands, and institute legal proceedings whenever possible, our customers are advised to order from us direct as the only safe way in getting our products, which are guaranteed to be absolutely pure and wholesome, and for which we assume the fullest responsibility. A handsome reward will be paid to any one bringing cases to our notice in which a conviction can be obtained.
